Cold Wave Kills Fifty

LONDON (CP)—Britain and most of Europe was caught in a mid-winter freeze Thursday night. Arctic winds, blizzards and numbing cold claimed a mounting toll of victims.

The count of deaths in the snow and ice rose to about 50. Road, rail and air traffic was reduced to chaos and moved at a crawl.

TRAIN WRECK

Near the British rail junction of Crewe, snow piled up over a pile of abandoned teddy bears and broken toys. Two express trains crashed in a blizzard there Wednesday night killing 18 persons and injuring 80 others. Four of the dead were children.

QUEEN SHOCKED

Queen Elizabeth, in a message of sympathy, said she was "deeply shocked" by the accident.

Only ski enthusiasts were happy about the cold snap. In Swiss resorts tens of thousands of winter sportsmen enjoyed near-perfect conditions on the slopes.

PORTUGAL FREEZES

Eight old people died of cold in normally sunny Portugal. Two died in Spain.

Hundreds of Italian mountain towns were cut off by snow falls and in the northern Alps the temperature plunged to 31 below zero. It was Italy's coldest Christmas week of the century.

DIE IN AVALANCHE

Two Italian smugglers were swept to their deaths by an avalanche and six other people died in the country of exposure.

Skating on thin ice cost 13 lives in Holland over the Christmas holiday when hundreds took to their skates despite warnings.

SWISS FATALITIES

Four persons have been frozen to death in Switzerland this week. A farmer was killed by an avalanche and two boys drowned when the ice broke while they were skating.

In France, 11 persons died from the cold and nine from asphyxiation caused by faulty stoves in the last 24 hours.

Golfers Had Ball And Close Finish

While most of North America froze on Boxing Day, golfers from Victoria and points as far away as Regina had a ball at Royal Colwood golf course in The Daily Colonist's ninth annual Christmas Tree tournament.

Vic Painter and Mrs. Ken Lawson of Victoria captured the main prizes as three of the four biggest events were decided by a playoff of a toss of the coin in the closest finish ever.

All of the 134 entrants had a good time and the weather, of course, was fine. Full details in stories and pictures on Pages 8, 10, 11 and 19.

Quintuplets Born In Argentine

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The world's third known set of quintuplets was born in the village of Simbilar Thursday to Mrs. Manuela Olmeda, who gave birth to four girls and a boy without medical assistance.

First quintuplets in medical history to survive beyond infancy were the Drouines of Callender, Ont.

Nikita Charges:

WAR PRESSED BY ADENAUER

KHRUSHCHEV
... 'major stumbling-block'

Cuba Solution 'Annoyed' Him

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Khrushchev accused West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Thursday of trying to start a world war over the Cuba crisis and warned him that West Germany would be snuffed out like a candle in the first few hours of a conflict.

He said Adenauer had tried to "torpedo" every attempt by the United States and Russia to reach cold war settlements, including Berlin, and said Adenauer was disappointed when the crisis over Cuba was resolved peacefully by both sides making concessions.

'LIKE CANDLE'

Khrushchev leveled the charges in a letter to Adenauer, in which the Soviet premier blamed the West for incidents along the Communist-built wall dividing Berlin. He renewed his charges that the West was guilty of espionage and subversion in regard to East Germany. Adenauer has asked Khrushchev to halt the incidents.

Khrushchev said prolonging the present situation in Berlin could have "dangerous consequences" and warned that West Germany "will burn like a candle in the very first hours" of any major war.

Khrushchev's remarks on the Cuban crisis were seen as another indication of what is generally assumed in western diplomatic circles here to be the Kremlin view—that the major stumbling block to a settlement on Berlin is Adenauer and West Germany.

NO CRISIS

But diplomatic sources said the Kremlin position on the whole German question since Cuba is an indication that no crisis is in the wind immediately. In their view, however, Russia will keep the Berlin

More Ransom Seen For More Cubans

MIAMI (UPI)—The Red Cross said Thursday it was making arrangements to ship more ransom goods to Cuba and possibly provide transportation for an additional 1,000 invasion prisoners' relatives seeking to leave the island.

"We are making preliminary arrangements to get another ship to take freight to Cuba but nothing firm has been worked out yet," said Red Cross spokesman Roy Johnson.

He said that there are 57 carloads of supplies now at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to help pay the remainder of the ransom asked by Fidel Castro for the 1,113 prisoners released this week.

Kin Rejoin Ex-Captives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nearly a thousand relatives of the freed Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners arrived Thursday on an American freighter from Cuba and were reunited with the former captives in scenes of emotion and joy.

Chances were considered good that another shipload of relatives would be allowed to leave Cuba.

The ship, carrying 520 relatives, mostly women and children, docked at Port Everglades near here at 9 a.m. Castro threw in their release as a "Christmas bonus" to the $53,000,000 deal that brought 1,113 survivors of the invasion in Florida to an airlift that ended Christmas Eve.

LOOKS LIKE HEAVEN

"It's a miracle we are here," said Mrs. Jose Delgado, whose son, Roman, 28, was captured in the invasion. Her husband said, "anything outside of Cuba looks like heaven."

The exiles sailed aboard the lighter African Pilot which had carried to Havana the down payment of $11,000,000 in ransom and had been substituted for heavy fines levied against the prisoners.

TO AUDITORIUM

After immigration procedures, enlivened by tiny children waving over smallpox shots, the exiles were rushed in buses to a huge Miami auditorium where they were reunited with the captives.

About 600 of the freed prisoners, many still dressed in the U.S. Air Force uniforms they were issued when they arrived, were on hand.

The exiles were probably the best-dressed refugees in history. Many represent the wealthy old Spanish families of Cuba, and they were dressed in fashionable frocks and high heels.

Refugee officials said after the ship docked: "This is only the first load."

JFK Seeing Prisoners

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy will go to Miami Saturday to see the 1,113 freed Cuban invasion prisoners at a special ceremony in the Orange Bowl.

Britain 'Stupid Old Woman'

ADEN (Reuters)—Britain is "a hideous old woman" still pursuing "a stupid 17th-century imperialistic policy" towards Yemen, President Abdullah Salal said over San'a radio Thursday.

The president's speech was made at an army ceremony in which rockets, parachutists, heavy field guns and tanks were paraded through the capital.

Salal said Britain was plotting against Yemen by sending light and heavy arms and infiltrators into Yemen via Aden and Belhan, bordering Yemen.

He described King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan as "fools and the dirtiest, basest of parasites" and said his army would "crush you and destroy your palaces and dispatch you to your graves."

"BIG BROTHERS" Salal said the Egyptians in the Yemen were not foreigners but "our big brothers."

DAMASCUS (AP)—Yemen's republican regime has asked the Soviet Union for a long-term commercial loan to help develop its backward economy.

U.S. Plane Missing Off Mexico

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—A twin-engine navy anti-submarine patrol seaplane, carrying 13 men, was the object of a massive search in the Pacific Ocean off the northern coast of Mexico.

The Martin P3M, on a routine patrol out of North Island Naval Air Station here, last made contact with its home base Wednesday night.

Strike Shows Latins But Full Stop Fails

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An attempt by leaders of 12 unions to bring all Argentine air, sea and land transportation to a complete halt for 24 hours failed Thursday.

Strike leaders, among them Peronists and Communists, succeeded in paralyzing rail, road traffic and port operations but buses and airlines were running.

The work stoppage was called to press demands for prompt payment of salaries and social benefits. Except for bus services, all Argentina's main transportation lines are owned and operated by the government.

judge, who was ill and temporarily away from the court. The U.S. marshal's office here refused to grant permission to interview the prisoner. The office said a ruling by the U.S. attorney-general prohibited interviews or pictures of federal prisoners.

J. Frank Trujillo of Santa Fe, N.M., the arresting marshal, said Suazo would be held until "the court is ready for him."

Trujillo said Suazo was "not dumb," spoke good English and could read and write. Suazo is a Second World War army veteran, Trujillo said.

reservation, following instructions given him by his grandfather. He said he became ill and decided not to try to carry the gold out through heavy snowdrifts, but to return for it later.

James charged that before he could return, Suazo moved the gold and refused to disclose the location except on instructions from the "spirits."

Judge Rogers ordered Suazo to appear in court Dec. 17 to explain his failure to comply with the court order, but Suazo did not show up.

He was held without bond pending a hearing by the Jesse L. James of Manitou Springs, Colo., who claims to be a descendant of Jesse James, says the "outlaw" hid the 14 90-pound gold ingots on the Santa Clara Reservation after the Civil War.

James filed a suit in federal court this year to try to get the gold. Judge Rogers ruled it was James' and ordered Suazo to tell where it was.

James testified he and Suazo found the gold March 10, 1980, on a mountain on the

Finder Still Jailed

Spirits Mum on Hidden Gold

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Roe Suazo received no word from the "spirits" yesterday to disclose where he hid Jesse James' phantom gold. So he stayed in jail.

Suazo, a slender, 50-year-old northern New Mexico Indian, was jailed Wednesday after failing to show up in U.S. district court.

A federal judge had ordered him to be there to explain why he had not disclosed the location of a reputed $645,000 in gold bullion gathered by the famed outlaw after the U.S. Civil War to be used when the South rose again.

Ignore House Arrest

Detainees Walk Out

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Several persons placed under house arrest by the South African government broke the order Thursday night following a decision by the Rand Provincial Supreme Court earlier in the day ruling one house arrest was illegal.

Percy John Hodgson, whose 24-hour house arrest was declared null and void by the court, left his home with his wife, under 12-hour house arrest, to attend a dinner party.

Michael Harmel visited friends and had dinner in a restaurant. Mrs. Helen Joseph, the first to be hit with a 12-hour house arrest, left her home to dine with friends.

Walter Sisulu, former executive member of the banned African National Congress, and Macdonald Maseko, an officer of the Swaziland Progressive Party, entertained at their homes. They are now allowed visitors under the terms of their dawn-to-dusk house arrest.

A. M. Kathrada, a former executive member of the Transvaal Indian Congress Party, went out to dinner.

All of them were placed under house arrest by Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster for activities directed against the government and its apartheid (racial segregation) policies.

Ancient Australian On Third Set of Teeth

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Vincent Bazzi has amazed Australian dentists. At the age of 92 he has grown a third set of teeth.

Bazzi, who lives at Pomona, 86 miles north of Brisbane, said Thursday night: "These six new teeth are very efficient. I can eat and hold my pipe in them."

Nova Scotia Car Key to Robbery?

BURNABY (CP)—RCMP are searching for a car bearing Nova Scotia licence plates they say may be an important clue in Monday's $106,000 bank holdup.

The car was seen in the vicinity of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch about the time of the robbery. Police said they are checking out "lots of information and leads."

Not My Daughter —Give It Back

NICE, France (AP)—British author Somerset Maugham has filed suit to take back everything he has given his daughter since her birth 47 years ago. Maugham, who values the gifts at about $2,000,000, contends she is not legally his daughter.

In a petition made to a high civil court in Nice and disclosed Thursday, the writer said he is not the father of Elisabeth Mary Maugham. She was conceived, Maugham said, before Syrie Bernardo divorced Henry Welcome to marry Maugham.

Therefore, the author asserted, Elisabeth Mary, now the wife of Lord John Hope of London, is not his legitimate offspring.

U.S. Blames Canada For Gold Woe

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States, hit by a gold shrinkage, is blaming Canada for part of its woes.

Though the U.S. got help from France and Italy to reduce a troublesome international payments deficit, the Canadian exchange crisis last summer upset the trade apportionment and deepened the American deficit, says commerce department economist Walter Lederer.

He estimated the 1962 U.S. deficit in goods and services will be down from last year's $2,500,000,000 but at some $2,000,000,000 will be still big enough to attract a lot of American gold overseas.

Colds Spare Workers At Brewery

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Maybe that long-sought cure for the common cold is lurking around a brewery.

Forty-two St. Paul men who work in the chilly cellars and filter room of the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Company claim not to have had a cold or flu for as long as 31 years.

The cold-free periods range from nine to 31 years, as long as the men have gone to work daily in temperatures between 32 and 47 degrees.

Dr. Floyd A. Thompson, the company doctor, agrees it's "pretty amazing."

"But it is a fact," he said, "it's been checked."

Overseas Relief Gets $50,000

TORONTO (CP)—The overseas relief committee of the United Church of Canada Thursday voted a grant of $50,000 for overseas relief, making the year's total $190,000. The money is handled by the World Council of Churches for the relief of distressed people.

Influences at Work

PREMIER BENNETT has repeated his belief that B.C. needs two—not one—full-fledged universities and his pledge to facilitate the recognition of Victoria College as an independent institution of university status.

That was to be expected of him and it has not been thought that he would go back on his word. His recent statement on the subject, however, left something to be desired.

Premier Bennett said that legislation giving effect to the change was not being held up because of the report on higher education being prepared by UBC's new president, Dr. John Macdonald. It is not being delayed for any one thing, he said.

What then prevents the necessary bill being presented to the forthcoming session of the legislature? The new charter has been prepared by the college council, the new buildings are going up on the Gordon Head campus, the third and fourth years' university classes are already in operation.

If as the premier implies Dr. Macdonald's report has no bearing on the future of Victoria College, is it not strange that the government isn't ready to implement the formal establishment of Victoria University?

It seems apparent there are influences at work to block the aims of a Victoria university and that strong pressure is being brought to bear on the government. The fears expressed by Judge Clearihue seem more pertinent than ever. There is a growing belief that Dr. Macdonald's report will renege on his previous opinion favoring an independent university in this city. Powerful Vancouver influences, aided particularly by some Victorians, are at work to stymie the local institution and keep it under the thumb of UBC. Dr. Macdonald may have been induced to alter his views.

Even Mayor Wilson, who headed the very successful drive for funds to provide for a university here, says "we should not try to anticipate the UBC president's report." Why the need to wait for it either, if as Premier Bennett says it is not a factor in the situation?

Unless the new charter naming and proclaiming Victoria University is embodied by legislation the latter will never achieve full university status. It will remain simply a junior appendage preparing students for UBC degrees and its future development will be in jeopardy.

And the longer the required legislation is deferred the less its chances will be of securing its autonomy and proper standing in the realm of higher education.

Victorians who subscribed handsomely to make this a real university town will not take kindly to being fooled by the big stick of UBC. And they are not likely to sit quietly under further attempts to hold back what they have worked for.

Encouraging Start

AN EXCEPTIONALLY happy circumstance of this Christmas and Boxing Day was that extraordinary care apparently was taken by Vancouver Islanders on the roads with the result that the holiday was not marred in what must be sadly regarded as the usual way by traffic tragedy.

Another festive period lies ahead, but this crossing of the first hurdle is an encouraging start, yielding hope that similar performance will mark the birth of a new year.

Each year the chances of being involved in accidents, on this island as in the rest of British Columbia, climb in proportion to the growing volume of traffic, and there are now 30,000 more cars on the roads of the province than there were when 1961 ended, making a total of nearly 600,000 vehicles using the streets and highways.

This increasing density of traffic automatically means more damage, injury and death unless motorists realize that more responsibility, caution, common sense and general courtesy to other road users is demanded of them for their own protection. The same, also, goes for pedestrians who too commonly believe that crosswalks and other safety devices give them freedom of movement no matter what traffic conditions may be, or who fail to consider how nearly invisible they may be on the road in hours of falling light or darkness.

The usual pattern is for traffic accidents to mount at holiday time. There is more drinking, more diversion and fatigue, and perhaps in many cases more temptation to speed and thus on wintry pavements to beckon disaster.

Fortunately the great majority of road-users on Vancouver Island appear to have had these additional perils very much in mind in recent days, and it is sincerely to be hoped that the same attitude will prevail while this year ends and the new year begins.

Meaningless Signs

A TREND among traffic engineers and planners is toward standardization of signs and signals everywhere, which is good. It means fewer local idiosyncrasies for travellers to decipher, and hence less confusion on the roads and a smoother flow of traffic.

Another is toward more pictures or diagrams on signs instead of words, which also makes for quicker understanding—provided the meaning is clear at a glance. And most, though not all, such wordless guidances are easily comprehended; pedestrian and school crossing signs for example convey an instantaneous message.

But it is doubtful that the large P with an arrow that has recently appeared at some downtown Victoria intersections fits into either of these beneficial categories. This sign points the way to the new parking building on View Street.

Most Greater Victoria residents will soon decide for themselves, if they have not already done so, where they must turn to approach the new facility most conveniently. And for visitors from out of town, one suspects, the P sign will have no meaning.

Those whose eyes are caught by the sign indeed are apt to be distracted by puzzlement, and it should be far more sensible to have an arrow and "parking," or "carpark," brief words that can be read and understood in an instant.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

THIS is the season of the glad hand, when to show their affection for you some men just about pulverize your fingers, little recking the damage to one's most exquisite possession.

I almost wish they'd kiss me instead.

Two would probably be better. I grant you, if I said woman's most exquisite possession, since in respect of elegance in this instance lady is way ahead of her consort, whether or not she paints her fingernails. Sometimes I wonder why the girls do this—the term "girls," of course, is all-encompassing—they look equally if not more beautiful without the colored varnish.

And when you see a Hawaiian sing that seductive song about hands as an expressive instrument you realize that hands can be a work of art. Nature's art, plus.

Men, being a work-a-day animal, doesn't put the same emphasis on the allure of his hands. Think of television. No cajoling voice is ever heard trying to beguile his attention to a bottle of hand lotion, excepting only to suggest that he couldn't do better than buy one for his better half.

Television ignores completely that he has hands too. Yet there are some dainty masculine hands, or, putting it in more pleasing perspective, artistic hands. At the moment I am gazing at a pair; as you know they usually come in twos. And this pair belong to an orchestral conductor.

Now here is a realm wherein hands may be both beautiful and utilitarian. I suppose the first man never thought his hands for any other purpose than utility; the adornment came later. And it must be said that a symphony leader's hands adorn the scene; they fascinate the audience. Which, possibly, is why some conductors eschew the baton. Perhaps beautiful isn't the word for a man's hands, in any context. So let's say they arrest the eye—the conductor's hands, I mean—with the delicacy of their eloquence. For hands are eloquent, whether in a boxing ring or on the podium.

Elsewhere too, naturally. And fortunately so. "Give me a hand," we say, although it may be a friend's shoulder we are really seeking for. Or his skill with a hammer. Because handwork, the thing that builds high-rise apartments, writes books, or sails a boat, is compounded of many elements. Brain, blood, sweat and tears—and hands.

And hands can be sensitive, deft, wondrous in their manipulation even when rough and brawny. Watch an expert spread cement and then try your own inept hand at the business. Test your usual best hand, the right, against your left, at anything, and see the facility latent in all hands. But generally left neglected in the left one.

We should all make our selves ambidextrous, I suppose, but we are too lazy. And this is the time of year when one's friends outdo one another in trying to make mincemeat, or its equivalent, of the treasured possessions I have been discussing. I shrink when I think of R. for Hogmanay is still to come, and my hands are neither eloquent nor brawny.

But if poor things at best they are mine, and therefore I must hang on to them. I wonder what the artistic VIP's do when they exchange Christmas greetings, or meet new friends at a time. Just how, I suppose, in self protection.

I wish I were known to be an artist whose hands were his fortune.

The Era of the Ombudsman

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

ONE of the more talented and imaginative young Conservative MPs, Mr. Arthur Smith (PC—Calgary South), has introduced on his own initiative Bill C-98, "An Act to Establish the Office of Parliamentary Commissioner."

The Smith Bill received a formal first reading on Dec. 6. It may not go much further this session. Certainly, its early passage is extremely unlikely unless it should win governmental sponsorship. But this, too, is unlikely. Minority governments are more cautious about taking on such projects than one in confident possession of an overall parliamentary majority.

Does Canada need a parliamentary commissioner? The nation has got by without one since Confederation. Yet with the growing complexity of modern government, there is evidence that Canada could do with one.

Every day, thousands of administrative decisions are made by the federal public service which touch the individual, his rights and his privileges. There was a time when Parliament, and the sovereign, could intervene to prevent injustice being done. But the machinery of government has grown so large that these checks are no longer as effective as was once the case.

The primary responsibility of the parliamentary commissioner would be to receive and hear complaints about bureaucratic injustice and, where he is satisfied that the complaints are justified, to take steps to ensure that redress is granted. The office would exist to cut through red tape and provide an active, easily used appeal procedure.

It appears that after a short lull, the Soviet bloc countries are again rallying to the support of Fidel Castro's regime. During the tension between Moscow and Washington over the shipments of Soviet missiles and aircraft to Cuba, the satellite leaders had second thoughts as to advisability of aiding Castro, particularly the Czechs who were believed to be the only ones, apart from the Russians, delivering arms to Cuba.

The hesitation has now ended. President Novotny of Czechoslovakia has proclaimed that Czechoslovakia "will continue to stand by the Cuban people; we shall help it in protecting its revolutionary achievements and we shall assist it in its socialist reconstruction." Similar assurances have been given by Hungary, Poland and Rumania.

Cuba's trade with Czechoslovakia has risen spectacularly in the past few years. The turnover in 1960 was just under $12,000,000. This jumped to $60,000,000 last year and, according to the latest trade agreements, will pass the $100,000,000 mark in 1963.

Among the major items sent to Cuba were complete factories of various kinds, six power stations, agricultural machinery, semi-finished products, and light military equipment, including Skoda tanks. In exchange, Czechoslovakia received sugar (last year, amounting to $12,000,000), which, being a sugar-exporting country, she re-exported to Latin American countries, and Havana cigars, a product virtually unobtainable in Czechoslovakia, as the Czechs and Slovaks are cigarette smokers.

The rest of the trade balance is financed by long-term loans to Cuba at 2 1/2 per cent interest.

In addition, Czech experts and technicians have gone to Havana while many Cubans are receiving technical training in Czechoslovakia. Official sources reveal that there are at least 500 Cubans training or studying in Prague; large numbers have also recently arrived in Budapest, Warsaw, Bucharest and Sofia.

Despite some initial Polish reluctance, trade between Cuba and Poland has also multiplied in the past few years. It rose one-tenth of the trade. Aid from $75,000 in 1959 to $4 million in 1960 and last year shot up to $22 million. A further increase has taken place this year and an extension of economic aid is stipulated in the new agreement for 1963. Rumanian-Cuban trade jumped from zero to over $11 million this year with a projected increase next year, while Bulgarian exports to Cuba have risen from $495,000 in 1960 to nearly $16 million in 1962. In 1960, Hungary granted an $8 million credit to Cuba; this was raised to $15 million last year and almost doubled for 1962.

The chief exports to Cuba are factory equipment, a ship-building yard, transport, consumer goods and chemicals, with the main imports from Cuba comprising sugar, tobacco (cigars), leather, metals and canned fruit. The Cuban exports, however, form only mainly of aircraft, tanks and military vehicles, thus contributing little to Cuba's economic development.

There has been some recent comment in East European countries against the unfavorable trade relations with Cuba, particularly as many of these countries are short of consumer goods for their own people. The press and party spokesmen have been obliged to constantly explain the reasons for this assistance, but Soviet pressure is never admitted to be one of them.

Satellite Aid to Cuba

By LAJOS LEDERER

from London

AN INCREASE in East European economic and financial aid to Cuba next year, with more technicians and experts being made available, has been arranged now that the crisis in the Caribbean has subsided.

It appears that after a short lull, the Soviet bloc countries are again rallying to the support of Fidel Castro's regime. During the tension between Moscow and Washington over the shipments of Soviet missiles and aircraft to Cuba, the satellite leaders had second thoughts as to advisability of aiding Castro, particularly the Czechs who were believed to be the only ones, apart from the Russians, delivering arms to Cuba.

The Polish Embassy were having a party on their National Day of rejoicing and hurriedly had to hire a pianist to play some suitable music—stuff by Chopin, with maybe a nostalgic piece by Paderewski just for the old folk in memory of days gone by.

When the pianist, in tall and white tie, sat down at the piano, he gave them everything from "St. Louis Blues" to "The Young Ones."

But no "Warsaw Concerto." When they asked him why, he said: "That's the way my musical cousin crumbles."

In deep anger, the Poles threw their hired performer out on to the street.

He hit the pavement screaming and cursing. A passer-by picked him up and asked why he was so incensed and so abusive at leaving the Embassy on his backside. He replied:

"Forgive me—but forty square Poles do make one mile."

"I suppose somebody in this country will come out with an album like this—when they do, shoot them!"

Sober Raiments

By CASSANDRA

from London

IT seems that we people who work in offices are lucky people.

Dr. Alan Robinson, who is the City of London's assistant medical officer, has been doing a survey and has visited 126 offices, 35 shops and 25 restaurants.

His general conclusions on offices are that they are spacious, they are reasonably quiet, they are usually warm in winter but poorly equipped to deal with really hot weather.

Sanitary accommodation is "surprisingly good" and only the standards of lighting are bad.

Apparently we've never had it so good.

Things have changed. The rules for the clerical staff of an insurance company 110 years ago indicated that the pen-pushers had a harsh and severely regimented time.

They began work at 7 a.m. and finished at 6 p.m. Prayers were held every day in the Main Office, and no talking was allowed during business hours—nor was anyone allowed to leave the room without the permission of the chief clerk.

Clothing had to be "of a sober nature. The clerical staff will not disport themselves in raiments of bright colors."

The heating arrangements were spartan:

"Top coats may not be worn in the office, but neck scarves and headwear may be worn in inclement weather. A stove is provided for the benefit of the clerical staff. Coal and wood must be kept in the locker."

"It is recommended that each member of the clerical staff brings four pounds of coal each day during the cold weather."

Lunch hour was hardly a Lucullan banquet. It was half a lunch hour:

"Few of the hours of business have been drastically reduced, the parading of food is allowed between 11:30 a.m. and noon, but work will not, on any account, cease."

The No Smoking rule was in force: "The craving for tobacco, wines or spirits is a human weakness, and, as such, is forbidden."

A junior clerk earned 8s 7d a week and a senior clerk, after 15 years with the company, earned a guinea.

The directors were proud of these working conditions and had apparently made some increases in wages. They concluded their rules with the observation that they expected "a great rise in output of work to compensate for these near-Utopian conditions."

Bang. Bang. Bang.

AT 8 tomorrow morning, in an obscure courtyard behind Holborn Circus, a summary triple execution will take place.

Three words handcuffed together will get the bullet. They have been convicted of abominable larceny and found guilty of describing trouble among the troops (such as recently occurred in Minden in Germany) with unlawfully related words. Viz: "Undesirable personnel turbulence."

Bang. Bang. Bang.

"If I were a fox I'd sooner be hunted than die by any other method."—The Duke of Beaufort.

I saw your disrespectful remarks about the Duke of Beaufort who said that nothing unites Great Britain so much as a good foxhunt—with the possible exception of a war.

You are being offensive not only to Dukes but to upper-class foxes. To be chased for miles until your heart is bursting out of you and then to be torn to bits by high-class dogs owned by a real Duke who possesses 52,000 acres, is a great honor.

Yours faithfully,
A. Fox.

PASTEN your safety belts. Extinguish your cigarettes. We are trying to land this crazy, hideous flying pun, and if it doesn't burn up on the runway and slay the lot of you, it will not be my fault.

Thought Britain's Greatest Export

By JOHN CROSBY
From London

War Between Rich, Poor Shaping Up

There's an odd mood in Britain right now. The uproar over Dean Acheson's speech was followed by a sudden shocked silence, as if the British had caught themselves raising their voices too loudly at a dinner party.

It's not the Acheson talk that upsets the British now half so much as the fact that they were so upset about it.

But the Acheson talk came at a point when the British have rarely felt so rejected. They are just beginning to face the immensely chilling prospect that they are not going to get into the Common Market.

At the same time they have mortally offended the Commonwealth. And they have no "special relationship" with the United States.

On top of that along comes Acheson saying they have not found a role. They blew up. Very un-British and they're feeling ashamed about it.

Acheson caught Britain between roles and one role that is being urged on her is that of leader in the strategy for what is being called the development decade.

A good many British intellectuals are trying to call attention to the fact that the struggle between East and West is far less ominous and even less real than the coming struggle between the North and South.

Or, to put it bluntly, the war between the rich and predominantly white northern hemisphere and the poor and predominantly colored southern hemisphere.

William Clark, director of the Overseas Development Institute, points out that the usual division of the world into East and West is out of date and misleading.

A much more real and significant division ("the rich man in his castle and the poor man at his gate") he says, is that between all of the great industrialized countries of the world lying above the 40th parallel and, in the South, most of the underdeveloped, emergent, definitely poor countries of the world.

In this sort of political division Russia, which is not only white but increasingly affluent, would be both emotionally and economically aligned with the North against the poor, colored South. The Soviet troubles with Red China are just the forerunner of far deeper divisions with the whole southern hemisphere.

One of the great Socialist objections to Great Britain's entering the Common Market (which it now looks as if they're not going to do) is that this would widen and deepen the chasm between a rich (and increasingly richer) white bourgeoisie and a poor and increasingly poorer proletariat.

Britain's role—and it's not a role of power but one of persuasion—might well be, first, to get the seats of power to recognize that the new and important division of world society is not between East and West but between North and South and, second, to do something about it.

The rich countries are getting richer, the poor poorer. One-third of the world has four-fifths of the income. Two-thirds have one-fifth of the income. Clark argues that Britain's role should be to lead in lifting the living standards of the underdeveloped countries with which it has had great experience in dealing.

"I think there is a real threat that the affluent world will get out of touch with the other two-thirds; in particular, that our whole Western system of private enterprise will seem totally irrelevant to the tremendous problems of the emergent nations. That we shall find ourselves in a sort of rich 'white faces only' club with large breakable windows facing onto a hostile crowd of colored people."

"Ultimately we came down to the fact, as one so often does, that our reasons for action are based on morals rather than on a nicely calculated weighing of interests.

"The answer to the ancient question, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' is still the same; we are responsible for one another because we feel responsible and because we begin to recognize the sense of world community which can be expressed as the brotherhood of man."

"We do not feed the hungry because it's good for our textile trade; we do not heal the sick to promote the sale of medical supplies. We do it because of the urgencies of conscience that will not let us wholly forget we are members one of another."

So long as there are Britons who can talk that well, think that well, and act that well, it's silly to worry about Britain's role.

One of Britain's great exports (as her law and literature and language now spread to every corner of the globe will attest) is thought itself.

And you don't need a lot of Polaris submarines or the Skybolt to do that.

BACKGROUND

Kashmir Parley Prospects Dim

By JOSEPH MACFARLANE

China has served up a dish of sweet and sour for the new India - Pakistan conference on Kashmir—sweet for Pakistan, sour for India.

The conference-eve announcement that Communist China and Pakistan had reached a border agreement on the 300-mile stretch of Kashmir controlled by Pakistan was greeted with dismay, as expected, in New Delhi.

And Chinese Premier Chou En-lai pointedly recalled in Peking, that his government has also reached border agreements with Burma, Nepal and, just the other day, Mongolia.

But even before the China-Pakistan pact was announced the prospects of the conference were decidedly dim.

There was little indication that Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan were willing to recognize that common danger from China ~~error~~ rode their differences over Kashmir.

Diplomats say the chances for success are not likely to be improved by Pakistan's evident satisfaction at the pact on the head it has received from China while India is still smarting from the cuff on the ear it received from the same source.

Observers formed the impression that the two governments were entering the conference on Kashmir simply to fulfill promises made to the United States and Britain during the height of the Chinese crisis a month ago.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be no subject of general interest, and must be less than 200 words in length and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

The committee of the Surplus Food Stall wish to thank all those of southern Vancouver Island for the help we have received during 1962.

It would be impossible to mention everybody, there are far too many. It always astounds us how co-operative everyone is. Over the years the work has grown tremendously and we now have approximately 300 families representing over 1,000 individuals for whom a hamper is provided every month of the year.

Thanks to all there is always sufficient to do this. We do purchase margarine, powdered milk, meat and rolled oats, and in the winter carrots and cabbage. This of course takes money and, thanks to all who help, this is always forthcoming. No matter how great the demand on us the response is always there.

Squeaky Wheel

A correspondent recently sought the reason for the red carpet treatment offered to the Douks by the B.C. government—first class air fares to Ottawa, and assistance in settlement anywhere in Canada.

The answer is very simple. It is contained in the old adage, "The squeaky wheel gets the most grease."

The method has been used by greedy unions for ages, and is usually successful. The theory is that if you can hurt enough people, and hurt them badly enough, you have an excellent chance of getting what you want, even if nobody thinks you really deserve it.

The secret of success in using this method is timing.

Tree Golf Champ Almost Blew Win

By HARRY YOUNG

A sizzling finish with two birds and a par enabled Vic Painter to catch Bill Wakeham and force a playoff for the men's championship of the ninth Christmas Tree golf tournament at Colwood Boxing Day.

Painter led the field by two strokes at the halfway mark, which he reached in par 33. Two behind was Wakeham, the B.C. amateur champion, who won the event a year ago at Upland.

But Vic blew his lead by taking double bogies at the 10th and 15th holes. Wakeham was two strokes ahead.

Wakeham played the last three holes in level par, all fours, but Painter got one back at the 16th where he holed a good putt for a three, and followed with another bird at the 17th.

The level finish—each six-over-par 76—meant a sudden-death playoff.

At the first hole Painter pushed his tee shot into the rough, and Wakeham with a slightly longer ball did the same.

Neither had an easy second shot. Painter elected to play safe with an iron so the ball would stop in front of the green.

Wakeham decided to go all out for a pin-splitter. His shot sailed beautifully over the trees and landed on the middle of the green. But it finished on the apron, leaving him a tricky 25-yard downhill chip.

Painter, 50 yards from the pin, played his third shot within 12 feet of the hole, and Wakeham overshot the mark by about 10 feet.

Painter stroked his putt boldly uphill into the cup, and the pressure was on Wakeham. The defending champion hit the ball firmly but it slid to the right, and Painter became champion for the second time.

Which whisky uses the water from a red granite burn?

Water, soft water, is one of the most important influences on the flavour of a whisky. And the water from a red granite stream is the softest and purest.

Next time you drink Ballantine's, you'll sense how the stream runs in the taste.

It is differences like this that prove—the more you know about Scotch, the more you like Ballantine's.

For Jerome

No Races Next Year

VANCOUVER (CP) —Harry Jerome didn't make it home for Christmas — and he probably won't make it back to international competition before 1964.

The young sprinter had hoped to be with his pregnant wife for the holiday, but hospital officials decided to keep his injured left leg in traction awhile longer.

"We think now he will be out sometime early in January," said coach John Minichiello. It will probably be April before he is able to walk without crutches.

"That means there won't be any running during 1963."

Jerome, the hard-luck sprinter who is co-holder of the world record for the 100-yard dash, is planning a new assault on honors which have eluded him for two years.

Speaking Briefly

Kidd Canada's Top Athlete

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, a distance runner who drives perfectionists crazy with his ungainly style, has been selected as Canada's outstanding athlete for the second year in succession.

The 19-year-old Toronto youth, who won the six-mile race in the British Empire Games a month ago and placed third in the three-mile run, was an overwhelming choice in the Canadian Press poll. He was picked as first choice by 88 of the 136 who voted and had a total of 363 points, tallied on the basis of three for a first vote, two for a second choice and one for a third choice.

Bobby Hull, leftwinger for Chicago Black Hawks who last season tied the National Hockey League record of 50 goals for a season, was second with 216 votes and Don Jackson of Oshawa, considered by most to be the greatest figure-skater in history, was third with 133 points.

Jackson and Hull each had 27 first choices among the pollsters. Harry Jerome, Vancouver sprinter, was a distant fourth with 45 points.

Mary Stewart, who was given a fantastic 146 first-place votes as the outstanding female athlete of the year, was fourth in the balloting for the outstanding Canadian athlete.

WORLD LIGHTWEIGHT boxing champion Carlos Orta is under ultimatum to defend his title against Kenney Lane by April 1 or forfeit his title.

Buck Yeo, 67, Victoria-born man who discovered Canada's 1923 Olympic sprint star Percy Williams, died in hospital in Vancouver on Christmas Day.

New Ottawa Rough Riders general manager Fred O'Neil is meeting with modest success in his talent hunting through U.S. college campuses. He announced two signings yesterday to breatheless newsmen—Allen Schaub, an end from Western Michigan and Andy Timura, a halfback from University of Dayton. Six others are also reported as signed.

Saskatchewan has signed ex-Saskatoon junior tackle Ken Webster who has been playing small-college football in Oregon.

Delbridge noted that "morale of the players was high" and suggested Lions' prospects were encouraging, since 15 of them were 23 years old or younger this year.

Lions Gain On Books

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions chipped in a record $47,000 to the Western Football Conference gate equalization fund in 1962 and still showed a modest overall profit of $6,528.

President Clayton Delbridge, in the club's annual report, says the profit was a welcome bonus in a "successful year of building" that presented some difficult problems.

It followed a final total deficit of $41,000 in 1961.

Lions began the year with 3,090 foreign season ticket sales and spent $4,000 on a three-man strategy into the efficiency of their organization.

They ended operations with a total revenue of about $668,000, an increase of $37,000 over 1961. Total attendance was 210,964 for the eight home games of a club that finished in fourth place.

The year before, Lions won only one game and drew 192,374 fans.

The contribution to the gate equalization fund was higher by $2,300 than last year, even though it was made on the basis of a lower percentage assessment.

Lions pay into the fund on a complicated calculation of the difference between their attendance—always highest in the west—and that of the four other clubs.

Among the major club costs were $425,462 for "players, coaches and training costs."

Delbridge noted that "morale of the players was high" and suggested Lions' prospects were encouraging, since 15 of them were 23 years old or younger this year.

United's Mel Cooper Now with Canadians

VICTORIA United gets its first taste of Anderson Cup soccer action Saturday when it hosts Vancouver Wallace Pilgrims at Royal Athletic Park at 2 p.m.

United will be without centre forward Mel Cooper who has recently left the RCN and has taken civilian employment in Vancouver. He has asked for and received a transfer to Vancouver Canadians.

Another bit of incidental club intelligence is that club goalie Barry Sadler turns 21 today.

Columbus moved into the Anderson Cup semi-finals Wednesday by defeating Royal City 3-0, on a frozen pitch in Vancouver.

Quebec Teams Quit CAHA Over New Hockey Magazine

MONTREAL (CP)—At least half the minor league teams in Quebec province have dropped out of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. It was learned Thursday night.

The development is the apparent result of a dispute arising from a player-registration fee levied by the national body governing sub-professional hockey.

In effect the charge is to cover a 12-issue subscription to Hockey Canada, the CAHA's new monthly publication edited by Len Taylor of Kitchener, Ont.

The magazine is sent to registered players by mail. A reliable source said the program has run into vehement opposition in Quebec province, and it appears CAHA registration has fallen off this season by "at least 50 per cent."

Last season the CAHA-affiliated Quebec Minor Hockey Association had 17,216 players registered from mosquito to juvenile leagues—covering youngsters 18 and under.

The informant said league convenors complained this season about having to act as "magazine salesmen" and team organizer — particularly in French-speaking areas — were flummoxed by it.

Although a bilingual edition of the magazine is published, it was felt the French-language content was insufficient.

In one Montreal district, suburban St. Laurent, where 80 teams were registered in 1961-62, it was learned only 20 or so registered this season.

The fee is 25 cents for each player in bantam, midget and juvenile ranks, with $1 for coaches and trainers. At the junior level it's 50 cents and for intermediates and seniors $1.

In the mosquito and pee-wee age-bracket, the fee is optional.

Weather Fine-Of Course

Competition Never Keener In Christmas Tree Golf

Players from as far east as Regina and as far north as Quesnel were among the 131 men and women golfers taking part in the ninth annual Daily Colonist Christmas Tree tournament held Boxing Day at the Royal Colwood Golf Course.

The big winners, however, were from Vancouver Island. Vic Painter, for many years a leading golfer in the Victoria area made good use of his local knowledge—he is a Colwood player—to take the men's championship. (See Page 8.)

Sudden Death

He finished the 18-hole circuit was six-over-par 76 and tied with the 1961 winner, B.C. amateur champion Bill Wakeham.

The two of them went out in a sudden-death battle to break the tie. Painter sinking a 12-foot putt for a par on the 19th hole to beat out his younger rival, whose putt from slightly shorter range slid past the hole and gave him a five.

It was the second time Painter has won the event. He took top place three years ago when the contest was played at Oak Bay and is only the second person to have won the gross prize more than once.

Bigelow Back

The record holder for men is Dr. George Bigelow, who won it three times in a row, but on this occasion was out of the running with 81.

The low gross winner among the women was another well-known local golfer, Mrs. Kenny (Joan) Lawson. Her round of 80 was five strokes lower than that of Uplands clubmate Mrs. B. (Lil) Thirkwell.

Mrs. Lawson has won the event three times, equalling the feat of Mrs. D. Naismith of Gorge Vale, who on this occasion did not take part.

Islanders Sweep Close Finishes

Never before in the popular tournament has the competition been so keen and the finishes so close.

Only One Won

Only Mrs. Lawson of the four main prize winners had an outright victory.

In the handicap section, there was a tie for first place in both the men's and women's events.

Navy man Gordon Dark, with a handicap of 26, turned in a net 72 late in the day to deprive Gordon Davies of Cowichan of a victory. Davies, handicap 14, had already turned in a net 72.

There was no time for a playoff owing to the falling light, and in a toss for top spot the navy man guessed right and took the Christmas Tree replica.

Sweater Gifts

In the women's event Mrs. Diana Strath (handicap 32) and Mrs. B. Plaxton (28) tied for the net championship at 75 each. Mrs. Plaxton, who plays at Gorge Vale, won the toss.

The four champions received gifts of sweaters and replicas of the Christmas Tree trophy. Golf balls bearing their names will be placed on the trophy in perpetuity. Second-place prizes were a dozen golf balls for each man and purses for each woman. Third awards were golf shirts for men and a variety of prizes for women.

Greens Hard

Nobody managed to get closer than six strokes to the 70-par course.

This was due to the fact the frost of the early part of the week had not thawed out of the ground and the greens, although very true and in magnificent condition, were very hard and shots played hilly at the hole were liable to shoot over the green and into trouble.

Green supervisor Tommy Thorpe had undoubtedly done a fine job of work in getting the course into the best playing condition possible.

Shots Skimmed

The fourth hole—a short one of 165 yards but with a lake between tee and green—caused a lot of excitement.

Several players, including men's champion Vic Painter, scored birdie two—mainly by skimming their shots over the thin frozen lake and on to the green.

Those who went boldly for the green shot themselves into all sorts of difficulties, and many balls went out of reach on the big lake to the right and behind the green.

As a result eight and nine scored were common at this hole.

Made Tougher

Other holes also presented their difficulties and there were few players who did not meet with disaster somewhere or other on the tough Colwood course, made a number of strokes tougher by the underfoot conditions.

However, for the ninth time in succession, the Christmas Tree competition was an outstanding success.

One competitor said "it seems to be better every year"—and that seemed to be the general impression.

What Else?

Once again, of course, the competition was blessed with lovely weather. Although the sun broke through the clouds only for brief intervals, the cloud cover and the absence of wind kept the temperature soaring and nobody complained of cold. Howard MacKay, manager of the Hudson's Bay Co. which joins The Daily Colonist every year in the sponsorship of the tournament, said: "We could not have had a nicer day for golf."

Popular Stop

Despite this, one of the most popular parts of call during the round was the tent under the trees presided over by genial Tom Hamilton and his son Bobby.

They dispensed hot dogs and hot drinks to each player at the halfway stage.

Another highlight of the day surrounded Santa Claus, who enjoyed himself in the open air after a long stint in the Hudson's Bay department store.

Santa's first job was to present to each of the women players a daffodil boutonniere, a present from The Daily Colonist.

As he played the boutonniere on to the competitors he blessed them and wished them the best of luck. The girls seemed to like it, and so did Santa.

Prizes for All

One shapely girl who was given a particularly warm hug by the kindly old gentleman turned to him and said: "Santa, I think you are an old wolf."

Tasty Tournament

Tasty refreshments—outdoors and indoors—scored big hit at Colwood during busy Christmas Tree golf tournament Boxing Day. Warming holdover stand at 18th hole was patronized by cheery foursome of, from left, Jack Storrie, Ernie Brown, Bill Luney and Archie Gilles, while inside, Doug Aune received feed of juicy roast beef from Royal Colwood chef Frank Hanwell.

When the players handed in their cards Santa was busy again. To every man taking part he handed over a bar accessory kit and to every woman a spoon, each with with compliments of the Hudson's Bay Co.

One of the fairly recent and highly popular items on the Christmas Tree schedule is the hot roast beef luncheon presented by The Daily Colonist to each competitor.

Succulent Beef

Frank Hanwell, Royal Colwood's chef, was kept busy all afternoon carving slices of succulent beef as the players arrived in the clubhouse.

Everyone congratulated the chef for putting on what one player described as "a sumptuous repast."

R. J. Bower, editor-in-chief of the Colonist, said he thought it was one of the most successful tournaments of the series.

He thanked the Colwood club, its directors, secretary Bill Pasmore, its greens staff and the clubhouse personnel for making the day so pleasant for everyone taking part.

Firm Praised

He also congratulated the Hudson's Bay for co-operating in the sponsorship of the event.

Harry Young, Colonist golf writer and a governor of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, paid tribute to the Victoria weather which has made it possible for the competition to be played without a weather break for nine successive years.

"Seven hundred and fifty miles nearer the equator Bing Crosby puts on a winter competition at Pebble Beach in California and, from what we have seen of that event on television, I think we can say that even if we are so much nearer the north pole we are playing in just as good conditions as they do on the Monterey peninsula," he said.

Sasks Lose After Victory

PARDUBICE, Czechoslovakia (CP) — The Tesla Pardubice hockey team edged Canada's touring Saskatoon Quakers 4-3 Thursday night in an exhibition game before more than 16,000 fans.

Tesla scored the winning goal with only 15 seconds remaining in the game, while each club was playing two men short. The Quakers had taken a 2-1 first-period lead but allowed Tesla to tie it 2-2 in the middle period.

The loss was the Saskatoon senior team's fourth in six games in Czechoslovakia. Earlier they lost two games against the Swedish national team in Stockholm.

OFF PLAYER

George Dolan, a member of the Czech national squad, scored the winning goal on a shot that caromed off one of the Saskatoon players into the net.

The Quakers outshot the Czechs 28-27 but were stopped time after time by the fine goalkeeping of Vlad Dvoracek. Saskatoon narrowly missed getting the tying goal from a face-off in the Czech end with only three seconds remaining. Quakers won their second game of the tour Wednesday

Jimmy Greaves Erupts

LONDON (CP) — Jimmy Greaves ran wild on a snow-covered field Wednesday to score three goals and help Tottenham Hotspur seal a march on its rivals in the race for the English soccer championship.

While most other First Division games were halted by snow and frost, Tottenham slammed Ipswich 5-0 at London's White Hart Lane stadium.

Altogether, 19 of the 46 scheduled English League games were called off.

Everton, the team at the top of the standings, was among those immobilized by the weather. Tottenham, breathing down Everton's necks, cut its rival's lead to one point.

Everton now has 34 points from 23 games. Tottenham has 33 points from 24 games.

LEICESTER WINS

Leicester City, one of the few teams to beat the weather, crushed Leyton Orient 5-1 and nosed into third place, tied with Burnley at 29 points.

Burnley was unable to play. Inside-left Greaves put on one of his special displays for the 35,000 who braved the weather and turned out at Tottenham's ground. He fired in all three of his goals in the second half.

Goals by English international, centre-forward Bobby Smith and Welsh international left-winger Cliff Jones had given the Spurs a 2-0 halftime lead.

Despite Davis Cup Win

Aussie Tennis Reign Over?

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Australia still is king of the tennis countries but its crown is shaky and Mexico has risen to replace the United States as its chief rival.

Rod Laver and Roy Emerson gave Australia its 18th Davis Cup win, and the 11th in the last 13 years, by defeating Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox of Mexico, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, in the doubles match Thursday.

Victory gave Australia a 3-0 lead, leaving the final two singles matches today no more than exhibition matches.

Machen Gives Ward Party

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Eddie Machen, confined in Napa State Hospital since he was found writing a suicide note two weeks ago, was reported greatly improved Thursday.

Machen and his wife, Charlotte, gave a Christmas Eve party, with cake and ice cream for other patients in his ward.

12 Daily Colonist - Victoria, B.C., Fri., Dec. 28, 1962

A disturbing feature of the final this year was the fact that the matches drew less than 8,000 fans each day and produced the smallest profit of post-war years—$44,800. Decline of interest was attributed to Australian domination of the game.

However, if Laver turns professional as he is reported about to do, Australian domination may be almost at an end. It will leave Australia with only Emerson as an acknowledged first-rate player and Harry Hopman, the Australian captain, says that the youngsters coming up are not of the usual calibre. Neale Fraser, at 28, is considered well past his prime.

However, Australia's win this year was accomplished easier than expected. Fraser got a stiff ruse before beating Palafox, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4, 11-9, in a two-and-a-half-hour match but Laver romped over Osuna, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5, in the other singles match Wednesday and it was easy in the doubles.

New Agency Set Up

OTTAWA (CP) — A new agency will be established here to process information on the extent of foreign control of corporations and unions in Canada, it was announced Thursday.

The agency will come under Dominion statistician Walter E. Duffett, but will function independently from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It will administer the government's corporations and labor unions returns act which goes into effect Jan. 1.

An administrative office has been established for the new organization and staff will soon be recruited to begin processing data from some 40,000 corporations and some 300 unions.

DETAILED INFORMATION
Under the law, passed by Parliament last April and proclaimed earlier this month, most corporations and trade unions are required to file detailed information on their financial structure and foreign control.

The information is divided into two categories—part to be available to the public for a small fee and part to be treated confidentially and disclosed only in general terms.

ACT PROVIDES SECRECY
Because part of the information will be available to the public, the separate agency will handle the work, thus preserving the principle of an operation independent of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The bureau operates under the Statistics Act which places a cloak of secrecy over the basic information it collects and compiles.

CONFIDENTIAL CATEGORY
Under the New Returns Act, however, the Dominion statistician is obliged to communicate, if asked, information from the confidential category to government officials connected with the formulation of the laws of Canada.

Soviet Microwave Talk Tapped by U.S. Satellite

NEW YORK (AP)—Newsweek magazine says the United States has a new satellite that eavesdrops on Russian microwave telephone messages. The magazine says the satellite has been called "Ferret," although it has no official name. The U.S. government has never acknowledged the existence of the spy, Newsweek says.

Cherry Blossom Time

Colonist King Fisherman Japan trip winners Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lohbrunner have specially timed their trip so they can be in Japan at cherry blossom time to see scenes like this one in a Kyoto garden. They leave March 27 on a Canadian Pacific Airlines super-jet airliner.

On Hollyburn Mountain

58 Trapped On Chairlift

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fifty-eight persons returning from a dance dangled on a broken chairlift for about three hours, shouting to keep each other awake in falling snow as temperatures plunged below freezing.

While rescuers trudged icy trails up the side of Hollyburn Mountain Wednesday night, the trapped swung their legs to keep warm in their seats, sometimes 200 feet above the snow-covered ground.

POLICE, FIREMEN HELP
Police and firemen in neighboring West Vancouver used ladders and ropes to get the riders off the lift.

One hundred and five others stranded at the top of the lift on the popular resort mountain were led down mountain trails.

FOUR ARRESTED
Four youths, three of them juveniles, were arrested and later remanded without plea on public nuisance charges.

Chairlift operator Mike Gazda told police he had seen some youths swinging chairs as they went around a pulley on the turning mechanism at the bottom of the lift.

FLIPPED CABLE
Officers said the swaying motion flipped the chairlift cable from the pulley. The sagging cable dragged a chair onto a tower crossbeam, felling the heavy steel structure.

Most of the group had been attending a gathering at a lodge on the mountain sponsored by the Western Young Judea group of the Zionist Organization of Canada.

HANGING OVER GULF
Andrea Rose, 15, of Victoria, and Wayne Shur, 16, of Edmonton, were trapped in chairs hanging over a 200-foot gully near the top of the chairlift.

Said Andrea: "People on the ground told us to keep talking or shouting to stay awake, so we yelled the whole time we were up there."

"When I heard the cable was broken I figured we'd be up there all night. I thought about jumping... The snow on the ground didn't look so far away."

GLAD DIDN'T JUMP
"But I was glad I didn't jump after I came down and saw how far it was."

Woman, Child Still Missing

CRANBROOK (CP)—RCMP said Thursday they have alerted B.C. and Alberta detachments to be on the lookout for Mrs. Rena Sitter, 55, and Helen Komaromi, 2. Officers said the woman and her granddaughter failed to return after leaving a home here Christmas night.

Business Bureau Endorses No One

The Better Business Bureau does not endorse or recommend any product, no matter what a salesman may say on the phone, W. D. Tindall, Vancouver Island bureau manager, said yesterday.

He said the Vancouver Island bureau has had a number of calls recently concerning attempts to sell by telephone. He said they particularly concern sale of hearing aids, appliances and encyclopedias.

"Several of the callers have stated that the salesman has represented his particular product as being recommended by the Better Business Bureau," Mr. Tindall said.

"The bureau does not endorse or recommend any product and we would advise a check with the bureau when such a statement is made."

Aid Given To Algeria

A recent appeal by the Victoria Society of Friends for relief of Algerian refugees has netted 23 sacks of clothing and bedding and $135 in cash.

The society conducts a continuing appeal in conjunction with the Oxford Famine Relief Committee, in England.

Donations from Victorians are taken to the Oxford distribution centre without charge aboard ships of the Furness Withy line.

Donations can be made at the Friends Meeting House, 1831 Fern.

Baby Milk Formula

Settlement $125,000 In Retardation Case

NEW YORK (AP)—A $125,000 settlement was reached Thursday in a $500,000 suit charging that a vitamin-deficient baby milk formula caused a child to become mentally retarded.

Brooklyn Supreme Court Justice Benjamin Brenner announced his approval of the settlement offer made earlier this month by American Home Products Corp.

The baby formula involved was known as liquid S-M-A, which was produced and distributed by Wyeth Laboratories, a subsidiary of American Home Products.

The formula was withdrawn from the market in 1953 after the U.S. Food and Drug Administration reported it was deficient in vitamin B-6.

BROOKLYN COUPLE
A Brooklyn couple, Frank and Mildred Carvo, brought the suit, claiming their daughter Jo-Ann, now 10, became mentally retarded after being fed the milk formula.

Wolf Hunt Sparked By Attack

RIVER VALLEY, Ont. (CP)—Residents of this community 60 miles northwest of North Bay are planning a mass wolf hunt for Saturday.

Last week a wolf attacked farmer Isidore Carre near his barn and sank its fangs into his neck before Mrs. Carre killed it with an axe. Several dogs and sheep in the area have been killed by wolves.

Mr. Carre, one of the organizers of the hunt, was not badly injured in the attack but is still receiving anti-rabies injections.

Tests for rabies on the wolf's head have not been completed.

About 40 persons gathered for a wolf hunt last weekend but it was called off after an hour because of bad weather. A private plane will be used in an attempt to spot the animals and drive them toward the waiting hunters.

Jake's Pardon Queried By Republican Chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican national chairman William E. Miller demanded assurances from President Kennedy Thursday that $22,000 in campaign contributions to the Democratic Party played no part in Kennedy's Christmas pardon of John (Jake the Barber) Factor.

Miller's demand came after a check of House records showed Factor and his wife gave political contributions to three Democratic groups in 1960.

On Christmas Day, Kennedy granted a pardon to Factor which quashed threatened deportation proceedings against him. Factor, after serving a sentence for a 1943 mail fraud conviction, settled in California in 1949 and became a successful real estate operator.

NO WAY CONNECTED
Miller said he believed "it is incumbent on the administration to assure the American people in no uncertain terms that the presidential pardon granted John Factor is in no way connected with substantial contributions to the Democratic Party."

"The facts which have come to light are highly disquieting. Our system of justice will be in great jeopardy if the day comes when persons of wealth can obtain leniency in any such matter," Miller said.

Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in Palm Beach, Fla., where the president is spending the holidays, that he didn't "know anything about" the Factor case.

A spokesman for Factor in Beverly Hills, Calif., said Wednesday Factor made contributions to both the Democratic and Republican parties.

The spokesman said he did not know how much was contributed.

Saanich Future in Murphy's Hands

By JACK FREY

What lies ahead for a fast-growing Saanich municipality? This is the question which must be answered early in 1963 by Reeve Stanley Murphy and his new council.

Reeve Murphy, much like a coach-quarterback, must decide who will serve on the various committees and boards, and guide council in its effort to keep services in step with development.

The council itself will set a policy on what goals to strive for on a wide front of essential services need for the municipality.

Reeve Murphy yesterday outlined five general goals which he hopes council will press for early in the new year.

They included a $1,700,000 sewer bylaw, an increased road program, continuation of park expansion and tree planting, completion of a new community plan and decisions relating to the need for a new municipal hall.

"These goals are attainable, and if they are achieved we will be well prepared and protected for years to come," said the reeve.

Passage of a sewer bylaw in the western part of the municipality would give sewerage lots for at least another 10 years, he said.

It would also solve problems through to the Cokizit basin, including some contaminated areas where there are pockets of small, scattered subdivisions.

The sewer bylaw will be put to the people after approval is received from the provincial health department. It will cost property owners about $70 per year for 20 years.

Reeve Murphy hopes to see road improvement programs carried out on Foul Bay and Burnside Roads, similar to those already done on Quadra, Reynolds, Cloverdale and Shelbourne.

"Large scale acquisition of parks is totally unlikely," but there should be a continuation of the park expansion and boulevard tree planting programs, he said.

The municipal planning department is now finishing a community plan for the area between Shelbourne and Quadra, which will give the corporation control of lot sizes, zoning and minimum floor areas, similar to the community plan which exists east of Shelbourne.

The community plan is not binding on council, but it traditionally is closely followed.

Some decision must also be made on proposals to build a new municipal hall to replace the old one at Royal Oak. Council has already authorized expenditure of up to $5,000 for study of a site at Vernon Avenue and preparation of preliminary specifications.

Committee members will be named during the first, or statutory, 1963 meeting of council Jan. 7. The question of municipal progress versus tax increases will then be in the hands of six councillors, Joseph Casey, Harold Todd, Leslie Pasmore, Gregory Cook, Hugh Curtis and Robert Oster.

They, and Saanich property owners, will have to decide what lies ahead for Saanich.

Final Day For $50

Any city taxpayer who hasn't applied for the provincial government home-owner grant for 1962 has until 5 p.m. today to sign the necessary application form at city hall. Failure to do so would mean loss of the $50 grant.

Permanent Memorial

Plaza Honors Philanthropist

Centennial Square will be a permanent memorial to the late Thomas Shanks McPherson. (See also Page 25.)

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said yesterday it is likely city council will spend a good portion of the $1,000,000 in cash it receives in five years' time from Mr. McPherson's estate on the civic plaza project.

Previously announced was Mr. McPherson's gift to the city of the Pantages Theatre on Government Street which is to become a civic playhouse within the square.

Firemen Save Dinner

A family of new arrivals at Langford, the Marshall Smiths, 717 Goldstream, owe their Christmas dinner to the fact they moved recently into a house across the road from the firehall.

Fat from roasting their Christmas turkey caught fire about 10 a.m. Christmas Day.

Firemen from across the street rushed over with a carbon dioxide dry chemical extinguisher. The carbon dioxide "snow" soon extinguished the blazing turkey and prevented the newcomers' dinner from going up in smoke.

Board Rejects Unpegging Of Milk Price

The B.C. milk board has rejected a proposal from the B.C. Federation of Agriculture to amend the board's order pegging the produced price of fluid milk.

Milk producers on the Saanich Peninsula were up in arms about the announcement made yesterday by milk board chairman E. C. Carr.

Mr. Carr also said that the issue is not yet closed and that there will be further study "with a view towards possible modification of the regulations."

He suggested the federation modify its proposal to include a floor price.

The federation's proposal followed the board's order, effective Dec. 1, pegging the producer price at three dollars per hundredweight above the floor price, based on payments for milk used for manufacturing purposes.

The order was the cause of much controversy in the B.C. dairy industry.

Brian Hoole, 5675 Oldfield Road, a member of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association and of the Saanich Jersey Cattle Club, charged last night that "Mr. Carr has sold us down the river."

Producers will lose 26 cents per can of milk because of the order, he said.

Output of average Island dairy farms varies from five to 15 cans daily and will mean a monthly loss of $30 to $117, Mr. Hoole said.

Where did it come from? wonders Saanich deputy police chief John Hamilton as he examines ship-to-ship line projectile found on the lawn of a Mayfair Drive house Christmas Eve.

Where Did It Come From?

A rocket found on a back lawn some 25 feet from a Mayfair Drive house has been identified for Saanich police.

Navy experts say it is designed for shooting lines from one ship to another.

"We don't know where it came from," Saanich deputy police chief John Hamilton said last night. He said he had decided to have experts from nearby military establishments attempt to identify the source of the rocket.

The housewife who lives where the rocket was found said it had made an indentation in the earth and grass around it was scorched.

The family found the rocket about supper time when they returned from a visit.

It bears the words Schernault Pistol Rocket and the information that it was made in England in June, 1954.

Parts of the object include a foot-long cylinder and a three-foot wire with a lead weight at the end.

Where it came from is a mystery.

City Schools Reopen Jan. 3

Greater Victoria schools will reopen Jan. 3, spokesmen said yesterday.

They expressed concern about erroneous reports that schools will reopen Jan. 2.

University students at the University of British Columbia will return Jan. 7, first Monday in the New Year.

Coast's Most Beautiful City Advances Harbor Plans

By IAN STREET

Second stage of a long-term city plan to make Victoria's Inner Harbor the "most beautiful small harbor on the Pacific Coast" is about ready to begin.

Ald. A. W. Toone, chairman of the harbor committee, said yesterday results of the latest engineering studies carried out on the site of a proposed new Causeway wall are expected to arrive "any day" at city hall.

All engineering data will be forwarded to the provincial government in January with a request that the project be adopted by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

"Victoria, because of its location, will never be a great deep-sea port," said Ald. Toone.

"Therefore we must consider the alternative course of developing our harbor for use by smaller ships and pleasure craft."

There are already nearly 25,000 pleasure craft in Pacific Northwest waters, the chairman said, and the number of potential users of small boat moorage facilities is growing every year.

First stage of the city's campaign involved getting the federal public works department to carry out engineering studies on the Causeway.

Ottawa reported several months ago that the safety factor on the present wall was insufficient to permit dredging of the harbor.

The city's initial aims, on a more modest scale, are to obtain assistance from both provincial and federal governments in building a new Causeway wall, some 50 feet out from the present one, and construct a "lower promenade" for pedestrians behind the wall. This would allow dredging of the harbor for more small boat moorage.

The CIDC recently made public a plan which has not been formally adopted for turning the Inner Harbor into a "marine park."

Likelihood Of Snow Very Slim

Chances for snow in Victoria by New Year's are negligible, a weather office spokesman said last night.

There is a slight chance a snow system now centred in the interior may move over the island, but it will likely move into the United States, the spokesman said.

Snow flurries are predicted for today for the coast south of the island, but even there are expected to be slight.

Civic Oaths Slated For Jan. 4

One new alderman, Cecil Parrott, and one new trustee, Lloyd Clarkson, will take office next week.

STAFF NOTEBOOK

Gift of Help, Time Warms 'Mr. Victoria'

By Ted Shackleford

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT: Mr. Victoria George I. Warren is very happy about an unexpected Christmas gift he got this year. He and Mrs. Warren were driving up-island, about five miles from Parksville on Christmas Day when their right front tire went flat. This happened about 4:30 p.m. and with darkness descending rapidly, George attempted vainly to jack the car up. Then a car driven by Dave McCraith of Alberni stopped.

Dave jacked up the Warrens' car and removed the punctured wheel. When he found the spare was flat, too, he drove the five miles to Parksville and hunted around among the closed stations until he found one with the air hose still operative, pumped up the tire and returned and put the wheel on the car.

LIGHTER SIDE: Friend of ours recently replaced his cigarette lighter which had a dogwood, B.C.'s official flower, etched into the side. The new one has both sides decorated with an etched design of the Canadian $20 bill. The point about these distinctively Canadian cigarette lighters is that both of them were made in Japan.

CHRISTMAS HAM: Amateur short-wave radio "ham" George Bridges, 2512 Belmont, was middle man in a happy Christmas Day incident. George was operating his set when he happened to pick up another "ham" broadcasting from a point only 200 miles south of Santa's headquarters at the North Pole. In a very few minutes George found out that he was chatting with a former Victoria resident whose mother still lives here so he was able to pick up the phone and pass on Christmas greetings.

BIG BIRDS: Man who works for a city firm which gives his employees scrip to obtain 15-round turkeys for Christmas decided to kill two birds with one scrip, in a manner of speaking. He felt a 15-pound bird was too big for his own small family and knew of a family in town with four children which could really use a large turkey, so he gave them the scrip. He figured on buying a turkey about eight pounds in weight for his own family, but when he began looking he found that the smallest he could buy anywhere weighed in at just 14 pounds. We hear he is now sick of turkey, but still happy he gave the scrip away.

SURPRISE VISIT: Staff at Mount St. Mary's home for elderly people and at Mt. St. Angela's home for ailing and retired Sisters of St. Ann were thrown into a flap Christmas Day when newly-installed Bishop Remi De Roo arrived completely unannounced with Father M. T. O'Connell to spend his Christmas Day visiting the residents. Bishop De Roo spent some time chatting with Ed Leonard, father of one of the priests of the diocese.

Smaller Rush Ahead Say Travel Firms

Transportation facilities between Vancouver Island and the mainland, having just handled heavy Christmas travel crowds, are gearing for a somewhat smaller passenger rush around New Year's.

Conway Parrott, general manager of Vancouver Island Queen Lines, said last night Christmas

Robbers Scared Off

Thieves were frightened off by an Equimalt policeman while attempting to blow the door of a safe at MacDonald's Consolidated warehouse, 836 Viewfield Road, late last night.

Police found electric wires and traces of powder around the safe door but everything was intact. The back door of the warehouse had been forced.

All Invited To Meet New Bishop

Everyone on Vancouver Island is invited to attend a reception in the Empress Hotel from 2 to 5 p.m. Monday to meet newly-installed Monsignor M. T. O'Connell and Remi De Roo.

Provincial Agriculture Minister Frank Richter will represent Premier Bennett at the reception and Ald. A. W. Toone will represent Mayor R. B. Wilson.

Guests will be introduced to Bishop De Roo by Monsignor M. T. O'Connell and A. F. Ritz.

Bishop De Roo will be present at a reception in the bishop's residence, 740 View Street, at 2 p.m. New Year's Day.

that Man in the Kitchen

The other day I was shopping around for something unusual to offer some dinner guests, and I came across some beautiful plump and fresh squab pigeon. This was almost like running into an old friend because I have not cooked pigeon for a very long time, not implying of course that every time I run into an old friend I feel like cooking, but as I prepared them "en casserole" the idea struck me that the recipe is so flexible that it is well worth passing on:

SQUAB PIGEON 'EN CASSEPOLE'

One plump pigeon per person (I also put in one extra for the pot), 1/2 lb. lean salt pork or bacon, finely diced small white onion, 2 per person, 1/2 lb. mushrooms, thinly sliced, clear stock (chicken or beef), red wine (a strong full bodied type), 1 medium onion, sliced, 1 medium carrot, sliced, 1 large stalk celery, chopped, butter, garlic, salt, pepper, 1 sprig of thyme, 2 sprigs parsley and 1 bay leaf, tied together, 1/2 cup cognac (optional, but very good), flour.

Wash the birds, dry thoroughly, season inside and out with salt and pepper, and truss. In the casserole melt two tablespoons of butter and add the diced salt pork or bacon, cook until browned and crisp. Remove the dice and dry on paper towelling and reserve. Into the fat in the casserole put two cloves of garlic and add the birds, browning them thoroughly on all sides. Remove the birds and keep warm in the oven. Discard the garlic. To the fat remaining in the casserole add the onion, carrot and celery, brown lightly and remove as much of the fat as possible. Return the birds to the casserole, placing them on top of the vegetables. Half cover with stock and add the wine to almost cover. Add the parsley, thyme, and bay leaf. Cover the casserole and bring to the boil, then place in a 350° oven and allow to cook for at least one hour or until the birds are tender. While the casserole is in the oven, peel the small white onions and blanch for five minutes in boiling water. Clean and slice the mushrooms and saute them in butter over low heat. Drain and add the onions mixing them well with the mushrooms. Leave on low heat until required. When the birds are tender, remove from the casserole and drain the juices into a saucepan and puree the vegetables into the same pan, put on to high heat and allow to reduce by at least half. In the meantime return the birds to the casserole and pour the cognac over them and ignite, baste until the cognac has burned out. The next step is to thicken the sauce with a mixture of butter and flour, check the seasoning and pour over the birds. Add the mushrooms and onions. Cover the casserole and return to the oven for fifteen minutes and then serve. With good fresh bread and a tossed green salad this will provide a good main dish for either lunch or dinner.

This recipe can be used, as I say, for squab chicken or even broilers, but remember that with the chicken, use a white wine. However, do not confuse this recipe with Coq au Vin which calls for a red wine and usually is employed on an older bird. Bon appetit!

Genuine Elegance Timeless

By NORA MARTIN

PARIS (TNS) — When I think of the epitome of Parisian smartness, I think of Mizza Bricard.

The most elegant lady in the elegant house of Dior, Madame Bricard joined the late Christian Dior when he opened his house in 1947. Now in charge of Dior's hat department, her advice even on the style and skirt-length is sought by Marc Bohan every time he launches a "new look" in Paris.

With all the talk about "understated elegance," I called on Mizza Bricard to ask her what she thought about simplicity in fashions.

"A smart woman will be neither underdressed nor overdressed," she said.

Anyway, to understate fashion is not for Mizza Bricard. She is a highly individual lady who dresses in her personal flamboyant style, exuding chic and femininity.

Just looking at Madame Bricard is as good as a lesson in high Paris fashions. This day she wore a slender black wool dress with a jacket fastened by a diamond-tipped jewel rose. She also wore five long rows of gorgeous pearls. And a voluminous chinchilla hat, trimmed with a diamond pin, framed her fine features. Her make-up is so discreet that she looks naturally beautiful.

When Madame Bricard told me that she is in her early 60s, I thought she was joking.

"Today women want to wear the latest styles and they want to look sexy," she said. "But real elegance is timeless and sex-appeal is in the woman, not in the clothes."

Here are some fashion rules from this Dior expert on what is always smart, Parisian and always "safe" to wear:

"Black, grey, navy blue and ivory are 'smart' colors. Wear hard, bright colors only when you are very young or a silver-haired lady."

"A fur hat is always flattering and as good as a beauty treatment."

"Fine leather gloves are a luxury every woman should permit herself. The smartest glove length is 10 or 12 buttons."

Fancy Food for New Year Party

By JILL ARLETT

If you're wondering what to dish up for that New Year's Eve party I've found a really intriguing store in the city which has a mouth-watering assortment of goodies just perfect for Monday night's celebrations.

There's everything here from caviar—and fried silk worms—for the real gourmets to mild-tasting cracker spreads for those a bit wary of trying anything with an acquired taste.

FEAST EYES

Feast your eyes upon the following:

Rolls of anchovies with almonds in the centre make an attractive and tasty New Year's appetizer and are priced at 45c for a two-ounce jar.

Something different for guests to try are Dutch cocktail meatballs on toothpicks—90c for a 7½ oz. jar, or smoked turkey cocktail sausages at $1.09 for 6 oz. Also to serve on toothpick ends are stuffed olives with three assorted fillings: celery, nut and pimento. Six oz. jar is 75c.

Shrimps are both smoked and plain: 60c a tin for the smoked ones, while cocktail size shrimps are selling at 39c tin. Store also has baby smoked clams at 45c a tin.

Crackers, such as onion bread and wheat bread wafers at 59c for a 10 oz. box, or cheese spread assorted crackers at 43c will do wonders to any meat or fish paste spread on them.

Or there are Belgium cocktail size croutettes—tiny pastry-like tarts which will crisp beautifully in the oven and can be filled with anchovies, caviar or shrimp.

CRUNCHY BASE

Melba rounds will also serve as a crunchy base for spreads and they are not at all fattening. Price is 39c a box.

For the cracker spreads there's a multitude of choices: In the caviar line, you can buy a small jar of Russian black caviar (sturgeon) for as little as $1, or red caviar (salmon) from the U.S. at 50c. For the bigger and better caviar plus jar—you can climb right up to $10.95.

Tinned Purée de Foie D'oie Truffée (freely translated as goose liver paste) is 95c for 2½ oz. and it also comes in tins ready to slice at $3.75 for 5½ oz.

GENTLEMAN'S RELISH

An appetizing mixture of fish, vegetables and wine known as Antipaste is selling at 95c for 3½ oz., and "Gentleman's Relish," delicious on either crackers or toast is 69c for 2 oz.

Chicken liver Paste or Kippenleverpastel (!)—the name itself sounds good enough to try anyway—is 49c for 3½ oz. can and smoked fillet of eel from Denmark is 95c a tin.

There's also a variety of mushrooms, chip dips, cheeses and other meat spreads in this store and I know you would find it both interesting and worthwhile to drop in and have a look for yourself. EV 3-4111 is the number to call for name of store.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: We are deaf parents of two growing children who have normal hearing. My husband and I lip-read. Since we have been totally deaf all our lives we are not able to pronounce all words correctly because we have never heard them. Our children have no trouble understanding us, however, and we all get along well.

The youngsters who come to our house to play with the children are afraid of us because we speak differently than their parents. One youngster told our son that his father said we should be sent away to a school to learn to speak properly.

We speak as well as we can under the circumstances, Ann, and naturally such remarks hurt our children's feelings.

Our children's friends call us "deaf and dumb," not knowing the difference between dumb and mute. The word "dumb" to children, means stupid. We are neither dumb nor stupid, and I wish you'd help us by putting this in your wonderful column. Thank you. —M.P.H.

Dear M.P.H.: It is a serious sin of omission when parents fail to teach their children how to behave with handicapped people.

Parents should explain early on the nature of various handicaps and how they came about. They should teach their children to be compassionate, helpful and understanding. The best weapon against ignorance is education.

Dear Ann Landers: For quite some time I have suspected that the human race is having a nervous breakdown. There is increasing evidence of mass insanity, but something I read last night convinced me that civilization has had it. A news story reported that millions of dollars are being spent on a campaign to put clothing on animals seen in public.

This motion is so sick that I do not wish to dignify it with a comment. I would, however, like to urge these people who have great sums to spend to concentrate on PEOPLE—and leave the poor animals alone. Women in America shop in bathing suits and halter bras. Males, naked from the waist up, drive convertibles all over the city. High school boys on the streets shirtless and in jeans so low on the hips that appendectomy scars can be seen.

I think we may be heading toward the day when the animals will be clothed and the humans will be naked. Comment please.—NORTH CAROLINA.

Dear N.C.: At the very beginning man was naked and perhaps in 5,000 years history may repeat. But animals in bikinis!!!! To repeat your phrase—the notion is so sick I do not wish to dignify it with a comment.

Household Hints

When relining a coat, buy a good quality fabric for long wear. A lining fabric should be firmly woven and colorfast so it won't fade or crack onto other garments. Read labels before buying.

Have you tried vinegar on a stubborn crease that won't iron out? Rub on white vinegar, just as it comes from the bottle, then press with a warm iron.

Take a squeak out of a door by rubbing the hinge with a lead pencil.

Edward Favored Alliance With Germany

ADOLF HITLER
... for his eyes

LONDON (AP)—A mysterious envoy told Adolf Hitler in 1936 that King Edward VIII, now Duke of Windsor, strongly favored a British alliance with Nazi Germany and wanted urgently to work for it.

To that end, the envoy wrote Hitler, England's king was ready to meet Hitler personally—regardless of what the British government of the day.

Then led by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, might think. The unnamed envoy recounted a conversation with the monarch in these words in a memorandum intended only for the eyes of Hitler himself and his foreign policy adviser, Joachim von Ribbentrop.

"To my question whether a discussion between Baldwin and Hitler would be desirable for the future of German-British relations, he (the King) replied in the following words: 'Who is King here? Baldwin or I? I myself wish to talk to Hitler and will do so here or in Germany. Tell him that, please.'"

ONE OF THOUSANDS
The memorandum to Hitler was one of thousands of prized documents on German foreign policy captured by the state archives by the Allies at the end of the Second World War. A selection of these documents, covering the period April, 1935-March, 1938, was published simultaneously Thursday by the British, U.S. and French governments.

MAJOR THEME

A major theme of the period was the attempt of the Nazi regime to form an effective working partnership with British leaders considered sympathetic toward Hitler's aspirations.

The British Royal Family was thought to be among those sympathizers, according to German diplomatic assessment of the day.

Edward never achieved a greater political role in British affairs, which the Germans attributed to him.

At the time, his love affair with the present Duchess of Windsor, the former Mrs. Wallis Simpson, was in full swing and in a matter of months he abdicated to marry her.

DUKE OF WINDSOR

Holiday 'Waste' Rapped

Thousands of Christmas trees left on lots all over Victoria prompted a B.C. Forest Service spokesman to speak out yesterday against the "terrible waste" of the seasonal industry.

Last year 2,174,000 trees cut in B.C. sold for $1,300,000. This year's cut was 2,500,000 trees.

Victoria's Chinese community has brought the St. Joseph's Hospital—building fund—to within $17,894 of the $350,000 objective. A $2,644 gift will furnish a four-bed ward. Fund books close Dec. 31.

Monty Holding swam a 50-yard channel through ice to win the annual Inner Harbor swim Christmas Day. Second-placer Chris Tyrrell won the Kinamen Gorge Park swim next day, where endurance champ was All-Sooke princess Theresa Eddy, 17.

Police Chief John Blackstock yesterday praised Greater Victoria motorists for the absence of fatal automobile accidents over the holiday. He added police will continue roadblocks and other checks.

500 Fund

Letters of Thanks For Aid Pour In

Christmas mail to The Daily Colonist comes in two important batches—letters with donations for the 500 Christmas Fund—and letters of thanks.

Now, the letters of thanks are pouring in from the people who received cheques of $25.00 from the fund.

"I wish to thank you from my heart," says one, "for the most unexpected and most wonderful Christmas present I have received."

Both types of letters are completely sincere: one trying to indicate the 'why' of the gift, the other perhaps having the more difficult task of thanking.

One tried poetry: "Your really concrete effort made To solve hearts' weariness. Five hundred got the cash to aid Their desperate distress; There must be love where there is gift And gift where there is Love"

Christmas Opera Excellent

By BERT BINNY

The Christmas opera Amahl and the Night Visitors, by Gian-Carlo Menotti, receives excellent treatment in its current presentation at Christ Church Cathedral, where it is seen at 8 p.m. tonight, Saturday and Wednesday through Saturday next week.

All performances are impressive—featured are Stanley Martin, Norman Tyrrell, Percy Walton Packard, young Jonathan Peter, Derek McDermott and Larry Johns.

Letters of Thanks For Aid Pour In

For those like you who will to lift Serve God who reigns above. ... with sincere thanks for remembrance"

Another said: "I wish to thank you and all those lovely generous people, who made me happy with this wonderful cheque."

Another wrote: "May God bless you and all the dear citizens of Victoria for sending me such a big surprise and great present for my Christmas."

... "I wish you all the health and happiness in 1963." Does any more need to be said?

Close Questioning For Diefenbaker

Freedomites To Move Near Prison

HOPE (CP)—A Doukhobor leader says 300 members of the radical Sons of Freedom will break camp here Jan. 3 and move to Agassiz Mountain Prison, where a number of their brethren are confined.

Mrs. Marie Shlakoff, unofficial spokesman for the Freedomites camped 1,300 strong near this Fraser Canyon centre, said a delegation left for the fire-proof federal prison Thursday to see if water will be available when they arrive.

Some Freedomites made a trip there Friday to locate a suitable campsite. Mrs. Shlakoff said they found one within yards of the prison fence. The wandering Sons have been ordered to leave their present quarters, the Seventh Day Adventists camp near here, by Jan. 3.

1962 Better Year

Revenues Improved, Deficit Cut by CNR

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian National Railways recorded "noteworthy achievements" including higher revenues in 1962, President Donald Conklin said Thursday.

In a year-end review, Mr. Conklin credited aggressive sales policy, the introduction of new services and techniques, and investment in improved equipment for the brighter business year.

"Our operating revenues showed marked improvement and CN's deficit is expected to be down some $19,000,000 from the 1961 figure," he said.

REVENUE UP
Freight revenues were up nearly four per cent, passenger revenues showed the smallest decline—about two per cent—in several years, and revenues from Canadian National Telecommunications reached an all-time high, going up by 13 per cent to about $37,000,000. Hotel revenue was not significantly changed.

Total operating revenues are expected to show an increase of about four per cent and to exceed slightly the budgeted figure of $736,000,000, he said.

EXPECTS TROUBLE
Nevertheless, Mr. Conklin said the company faces "very real difficulties" largely because it is saddled with the heavy debt incurred when the government formed the Crown corporation by buying up private railways.

CNR's capital structure needed to be revised to remove the burden of fixed interest charges required "because of inadequate charges to operations in the year before present day depreciation procedures were adopted," he said.

Japan, China Sign Trade Agreement

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan and communist China signed a non-governmental trade protocol yesterday asserting that politics and economics are inseparable and denouncing alleged U.S. attempts to discourage Sino-Japanese trade.

The protocol, a follow-up on the $2,000,000, five-year Sino-Japanese trade agreement concluded last month, was signed by a Japanese government-approved private trade delegation and China's official council for the promotion of international trade.

The protocol contained a sharp contradiction to Japan's announced policy of expanding trade with China on a non-political basis.

Diefenbaker Catches Up On Business

NASSAU, The Bahamas (CP)—After a quiet Christmas holiday, Prime Minister Diefenbaker is catching up on his official correspondence before returning to Canada, aides said Thursday.

Diefenbaker telephoned the acting prime minister in Ottawa Howard Green, minister of external affairs, Wednesday night after spending Wednesday afternoon on a fishing cruise off New Providence Island.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker likely will be questioned closely by opposition MPs when Parliament reconvenes Jan. 21 on his disclosure of the amount of a Western military aid program for India.

Mr. Diefenbaker revealed details of the program at Nassau before the United States and Britain could officially inform India and Pakistan, diplomatic sources said here Thursday.

TO BOLSTER FORMER
After attending a luncheon meeting Dec. 21 with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan, Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters that the U.S., Britain and Canada and some other Commonwealth countries plan to provide India with $120,000,000 worth of military equipment to bolster its forces fighting Communist Chinese aggression.

Diplomatic sources said Mr. Diefenbaker revealed the amount of aid before Britain and the U.S. could inform India or reassure Pakistan that the Western weapons could be used only by India in its conflict with Red China.

Canadian authorities said Mr. Diefenbaker had not leaked any information deliberately or inadvertently but had merely mentioned the figure—$120,000,000—which had been fairly common knowledge among officials here, in Washington and London for a number of weeks. The figure was, however, the first public announcement of the projected amount of the aid program.

ALARM EXPRESSED
Pakistan earlier expressed alarm over Western military assistance to India on grounds that India might use it in its long-standing dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

There were some reports that the U.S. and Britain were upset by Mr. Diefenbaker's disclosure.

However, in Washington American and British diplomatic sources said officials of their countries were not unduly perturbed by the premature disclosure.

A British official said President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan had decided not to make details of the program public until there had been consultation with India and Pakistan. This consultation started Thursday.

Yemen Issues Rocket Threat

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Yemen's republican regime boasted Thursday that its army possesses modern rockets and threatened to use them against the royal palaces in Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

The claim and the threat were made in a broadcast from Sana'a, the Yemeni capital, describing a military parade celebrating the three-month anniversary of Field Marshal Abdulrahman Salaf's overthrow of the monarchy.

The announcer said the rockets were among the "latest modern rockets in the world."

Caution Pays Off

The absence of Christmas tree fires in Victoria drew a word of praise—coupled with a word of warning—from Fire Chief James Bayliss yesterday. "People are being cautious," the chief said. "We hope they will continue to be."

Christmas Baby Girls Outnumber New Boys

Girls born in Victoria hospitals Christmas Day outnumbered the boys two to one.

Four girls and a boy were born in St. Joseph's Hospital and one boy was born in Royal Jubilee.

Girls were born to Dr. and Mrs.

"We have not had a single Christmas tree fire over this holiday period," he continued. "We are grateful to the public for being safety-conscious."

"But Christmas trees should not be left too long," he said.

"They dry out rapidly and become fire hazards."

"We hope they will be taken down as soon as possible after the festive season is over."

A Boxing Day fire caused about $1,500 damage in the upper duplex home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. O'Neill, 517 Harbinger.

"They lost all their clothes," said Mrs. H. E. Rozell, wife of the owner. The Rozells live downstairs.

"The fire was caused by faulty wiring between the petitions," Mrs. Rozell said. "Water came through the ceiling and damaged our apartment, too."

A fire about 10:50 p.m. on Boxing Day did $750 damage to one of the units at Craigflower Auto Court, View Royal Fire Chief A. E. Beasley told the Colonist last night.

Occupants Mr. and Mrs. W. Piper and three children were away at the time.

The fire, which was caused by faulty wiring, was noticed by tenants in a neighboring apartment, the chief said.

Sally Ann Yule Feast Set Jan. 9

One of Victoria's biggest Christmas dinners will be served more than two weeks after Christmas is over.

The dinner will be served Jan. 9 to about 160 of Victoria's elderly people, at the Salvation Army Citadel. The celebration will be complete with gifts and entertainment.

TOO BONY EARLIER

Maj. Ronald Frewing, of the Salvation Army, said the dinner is held in January because the many activities of the Army make it impossible to hold it at Christmas.

Trials May Run Into 1970

By HANNA NEUBERG

COBLENZ, Germany (AP)—The court called a short recess—long enough for a cigarette. Two witnesses had just testified how prisoners of the Nazis were burned alive.

Now the courtroom was empty except for some of the guards and some of the 12 former SS men who didn't want a cigarette.

'RUBBISH DEVILISH'

In one corner of the courtroom, defendant Arthur Wilke stood before a large green map of western Russia.

"I tell you, those Russians were just devilish," Wilke said. Two young policemen listened to him intently.

Wilke and 11 others were charged with the war murder of 70,000 Jews, Russians, Gypsies and mental patients.

LIVELY DISCUSSIONS

Outside in the corridor, a lively discussion was going on. "Why don't they close the books now that Adolf Eichmann is dead?" asked a young man. "After all—30 years have passed since these things happened."

"Would you agree to close the books if these men had slain your parents?" another visitor objected.

STRUGGLE WITH PAIN

The Coblenz hearing is one of hundreds of war crimes trials which have been, are being or will be held in Germany, still struggling to settle accounts with its Nazi past.

Twelve men sit in the Coblenz dock. Fourteen more face courts in Bonn, Flensburg, Hamburg. When these trials are over, others will follow. Thousands already have been convicted. At least 700 war crimes suspects still are to be tried. Trials may run into 1970.

CHIEF INTERVIEW

This may be a reason why public interest in Germany is limited even in this town where Georg Heuser, on trial here with 11 others, rose to be a chief detective before his arrest in 1959.

Why weren't these people tried long ago? How did a man like Heuser become chief detective? Why does it take years to prepare trials?

STAGED BY ALLIES

A poll of several prosecutors, most of them teen-agers when the war ended, brought these views:

All war crimes trials in the early post-war period were staged by the allied powers and

Dam Height Decided Before Bennett Trip

Decision to cut the height of the Peace River dam by 50 feet had been made at the technical level before Wall Street financiers ever decided to back the project, the Colonist learned yesterday.

But Premier Bennett probably didn't know about it.

LIBERAL CLAIM

Discovery that the decision had been made before the New York meeting where he formed a financing syndicate for the huge project, came on the heels of a statement by Liberal leader Ray Perrault that the financiers probably ordered the change.

Mr. Bennett denied the charge from his Kelowna home last weekend.

Sources close to the project say that from a technical standpoint the height of the dam has been in a state of flux since 1958 when a scheme to harness the river was first proposed.

Last Friday's announcement that the Portage dam would be only 600 feet high instead of 650 merely indicated that a final height had been chosen from among several proposed at various times.

At least one early engineering study of the project mentioned the desirability of a dam only 350 feet high.

Chopping 50 feet off the height of the dam may cut 25 per cent from the cost of the $400,000,000 first phase of Peace power development but will cut output only eight per cent.

The move will shorten the 200-mile reservoir by 27 miles and eliminate the necessity of relocating part of the Hart Highway. PGE and a natural gas transmission line

Garden Notes

Plants Not People

By M. V. CHENNETT, FRM
Several of my florist-friends around town have told me that this has been the busiest Christmas season they have ever experienced. The demand for flowering houseplants in particular has been unprecedented, and many of these lovely gifts have found their way into homes and apartments where houseplants have never before been grown.

I am a bit concerned over the ultimate fate of these plants, however, for only too often, through in correct treatment, the pleasure of such gifts is short-lived, and the plant which was in full bloom and vigorous health on Christmas morning has become a sorry, sick shadow of itself by the middle of January.

The new owner, infatuated with the lovely gift, overwhelms the poor thing with kindness. She gives it a cozy spot close to a sizzling radiator, douses it with little dribbles of water at any hour of the day or night, and pushes a plant pill in the soil as a special treat every time she thinks of it. A plant would need the constitution of a Russian thistle to stand up under such constant mothering.

The basic error here lies in believing that plants enjoy the same living conditions as human beings. We relax, sit around in our shirt sleeves, and are thoroughly comfortable in a temperature of 72 degrees and a comparative humidity of 25 to 30 per cent. We like it, so why shouldn't our plants? The flaw in this logic—attributing human likes and dislikes to our plants—should be obvious to anyone who thinks about it for a minute.

Make no mistake about it—plants don't like the conditions that humans enjoy, nor do humans find comfort in the optimum growing conditions for plants. For instance, if you were to visit a commercial greenhouse where potted cyclamens are grown for market, you wouldn't stay long and you'd keep your topcoat on, for the temperature at flowering time is around 45 degrees and the humidity is high.

Your gift houseplant may not be entirely happy in your cozy home, then, but the modern houseplants of commerce are chosen for their freedom from fussiness—for their ability to survive under less-than-perfect conditions. Just as man has learned to live and work in the Arctic regions, so will these easy-going and tolerant plants live and bloom in what, to them, is a stuffy and overheated home. Always remember, though, that they are not necessarily happy under these conditions, and they might do better and live longer in cooler, moister air.

If you want your gift houseplant to stick around and become your long-term companion, try to come as close as you can to the conditions under which it was grown in the commercial greenhouse. This means plenty of light, for one thing, with good ventilation and a cool, moist atmosphere. I realize that you can't be expected to revamp the heating system and sit around bundled up in overcoats just to suit the sensibilities of your plants, of course, but at least you can make a home for them well removed from the fierce heat of a radiator or the atrocious blast from a hot air register.

Lucky indeed is the houseplant owner who has a spare bedroom equipped with a big, sunny window. In such a spare room, the door can be kept closed and the heat lowered, with the plants happy and vigorous under such cool, light conditions. Your collection of plants here can be used as a "bank" from which flowering specimens can be "borrowed" to grace the dinner table or to ornament the living room, and returned for nursing back to health after they start to deteriorate. This is the way they work in hotels and other public buildings, with the greenhouse supplying plants for temporary rotating tours of duty in the lobby or rotunda.

During the next few days, this column will give specific instructions for the care of houseplant azaleas, cyclamens, poinsettias and Jerusalem cherries. If one of these lovely plants has come to live at your house, I suggest you clip and save the appropriate column.

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Julie Carson and her film-director husband Peter Hall have joined Noel Coward, Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton and Peter Sellers in the financing of The Caretaker in England. They could very well be starting a new kind of United Artists. All the people mentioned have money to spare and to burn. Why not use it to back films in which they believe?

Note to Metro: Please rescue the first Mutiny on the Bounty as soon as possible. I think people would like to see again the two late great stars in it—Charles Gable and Charles Laughton. Charles will always be remembered for his Captain Bligh role.

Peter O'Toole has a bit of a problem. He dyed his dark hair blond and had it straightened for his role of Lawrence of Arabia. The blond hair went very well with his blue eyes. The problem is, having made his huge success in this movie, no one will recognize him in another film with dark, curly hair. But if I know Peter, he will not go to the dye pot again, or the decurrier.

The same thing happened with Terence Stamp. He looked like a blond angel in Billy Budd. He doesn't look as good with his own dark hair. But Terence refuses to dye—or bleach—for his art again.

A friend of mine called to say he ran into Betty Hutton and told her how well she looked. "Things couldn't be better," she replied. "I've found God and to heck with everything else." It's little stories like this that make our day.

Alfred Hitchcock, discussing his new Grace Kelly-type find, Tippi Hedren, when he stars in The Birds: "She didn't know anything, so she had nothing to unlearn." Hitch found her doing commercials on television, and has performed a complete job of changing the former model. She now has the distant coolness that Hitch likes for his sex-appealing ladies.

Japanese, I'm told, do not like to see themselves depicted on the screen. And avid Japanese moviegoers will probably be the last to see the picture, A Girl Named Tamiko.

Only her close friend, Roddy McDowall, could have received Elizabeth Taylor's permission to use her Cleopatra photographs, some of them revealing, for that girlie-girlie magazine. All the photos were taken when Roddy worked in the Cleo picture with the stren.

A RUDOLF FLESCHE Review

Regal Chit-Chat Makes Sparkling Reading

One of the most gorgeous books now around is Kings, Courts and Monarchy by Harold Nicolson (Simon & Schuster). It's a large volume, handsomely printed in Italy and decked out with almost 300 stunning illustrations.

The text is almost drowned in all this fancy art work, but since it was written by Sir Harold Nicolson, an old hand, there's enough sparkle and animated chit-chat about royalty to carry you easily from one fascinating picture to the next.

Among the 1001 items brought out by Nicolson are these:

- King Louis XIV of France never allowed his courtiers to turn their backs on him. Therefore, whenever he went to worship in his chapel, he himself faced the altar but everybody else had to turn around and face him.
- Charles IX had a genius for detail and an amazing memory. He would count the hens in his chicken run and would reproach a choir boy who sang out of tune.
- The medieval custom of acclamation of the king by his feudal knights was still followed at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. But it was the boys of Westminster School who did the acclaiming.
- Alexander the Great firmly believed that he was descended from Hercules and Achilles and that his blood was divine. He would refer to his father, King Philip, as "my so-called father."
- King James I of England wrote a manual on kingship for his son. Among other things he advised him to take physical exercise for the sake of his health but to avoid "such rough and violent exercises as the football."
- The Roman Emperor Elagabalus loved practical jokes. He would serve his guests with sweets or fruit made of wax, and would seat elderly senators or generals on air cushions which his slaves would suddenly deflate.
- The position of prime minister came into being when King George I—who was German and spoke no English, tried to preside at cabinet meetings using Latin but gave it up when he couldn't understand the ministers' pronunciation. So he left the job of presiding to the senior minister.
- Tamerlane, the Mongol conqueror, had the habit of playing chess by himself in the very heat of battle.
- The Ottoman Empire had a law of fratricide, issued in 1453 by Sultan Mehmed II which made it mandatory for each new sultan to immediately murder all his brothers.

CHARLES McDOWELL Offers Nonsense Prose To Be Read Aloud

To say goodbye to the tired and addled old year, we present a piece of prose that literally doesn't make sense. This is a special kind of nonsense which when read aloud in a hopeful way with the mind in neutral, becomes a fairy tale of a sort. It does, anyway, for some people. For others, it merely becomes maddening.

Millions in Will For All Victoria

An elderly Scottish business man who piled up a fortune by shrewd investments has left more than $4,000,000 to Victoria and its citizens.

Thomas Shanks McPherson died Dec. 3 at 89, after spending his later years quietly between a bachelor's residence at the Union Club and his office in the Central Building.

WORTHWHILE ESTATE

His principal purpose in life in his adopted city was the building of a worthwhile estate from which the citizens would benefit.

Major benefactor from his will, probated yesterday after some details were disclosed earlier, is Victoria University. To be paid to the university building fund as soon as possible is $250,000.

CENTRAL BUILDING

Five years from now, the fund is to receive $1,000,000 in cash and Mr. McPherson's personal interest in the Central Building at View and Broad, valued at $206,151.24 in the probated will.

Mr. McPherson told acquaintances he intended to leave the large legacy to the university because its growth and development was "the single most important factor in the progress of the city."

SECOND LARGEST

Also vital was downtown redevelopment, so the city became the second-largest beneficiary.

Lawyer Kenneth C. McIntosh, personal solicitor to Mr. McPherson for more than 20 years and a friend for 50, entered the will for probate.

The Canada Trust Co. is executor and trustee.

Immediate bequests:

- University building fund for Victoria University: $250,000.

- Salvation Army: $200,000 to be used as it sees fit, but in B.C. only.

- YMCA and YWCA: $200,000 for erection of a building in Victoria.

- Christ Church Cathedral: $50,000 with the expressed hope it will be used for the completion of the chancel.

- A modest lifetime income for a relative in Victoria, and a provision to care for the needs of a permanently hospitalized friend in Victoria.

Net value of the estate was listed at $4,047,183.

After the immediate bequests, the remainder is to be placed in two trusts for five years.

PANTAGES THEATRE

It is mostly stocks, including $2,082,518 in International Nickel, and some adjoining property.

Income from the trusts is to be given in five annual gifts to 11 charities and a Masonic lodge.

Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1 will receive $500 annually.

COMMUNITY CHEST

The charities, with percentages of the remainder of the income in brackets: Community Chest (25); YM-YWCA (25); Salvation Army Victoria (10); and (five per cent each) Protestant Orphans Home, Victoria Symphony Society, Solarium, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Red Cross Society, Canadian National Institute for the Blind and Goodwill Enterprises.

After five years, the estate will be broken up, with the university receiving the share of the Central Building and the $2,000,000.

PART OF SQUARE

All the rest, estimated in value well over $1,000,000 and including the theatre which is to become part of the Centennial Square development, is to go to the corporation of the city of Victoria.

Throughout his life, Mr. McPherson made many quiet gifts to various community organizations.

GIFT OF TWO LOTS

These included the donation of two lots at Courtney and Quadra for the YM-YWCA.

building site several years ago. Born in Airdrie, Scotland, in 1872, he came to Canada with his parents in 1882. After schooling in New Westminster, he went to California, then took a store clerk's job in Nelson.

He came to Victoria in 1905 and entered the real estate business.

During the real estate boom in the next five or six years, he invested and subdivided, then opened the Central Building in 1912 with a partner. Described as being "very frugal," yet a man with a "lot of courage," he then invested in growth stocks and "rights" and increased his holdings over the years.

He also carried on as agent for the Central Building where he had his offices.

E & N Denies Blame In Failure of Firms

E & N Railway land department officials have denied two logging companies in Sooke are being forced out of business because they could not meet E & N timber prices.

E & N manager William Sloan said his company made a genuine effort to deal solely with Moore-Whittington Lumber Company Ltd. although two larger companies were anxious to purchase the same timber.

REGRET EXPRESSED

"We deeply regret we couldn't complete negotiations with the Victoria firm," he said.

Moore-Whittington announced last week its Elder Timber Company has been forced out of business because it could not negotiate purchases of standing timber on the land belt owned by the railway and its subsidiary, Pacific Logging Co.

Stanley Moore, president and division manager of sawmills, said the E & N terms were impossible. The railway had asked a high price and cash before the timber was logged and its estimates of timber quality were so close "we could not afford to gamble."

$10 PER FOOT

He said the price including provincial tax was $10 per foot board measure for hemlock and $20 for fir.

Mr. Sloan said the price for hemlock, including tax, was less than $7. The $20 price for fir was less than the current market price on Vancouver Island.

Commenting on reports that A. G. Manzer and Sons Ltd.

logging crews have been reduced because of E & N prices, Mr. Sloan said the railway has had no business negotiations with the company since 1956.

He said since Pacific Logging Co. started logging in Sooke in August more than 35 men have been asked to log.

More than 100 additional jobs would be created when the Sooke Forest Products sawmill expansion program was completed in April, 1963.

Commenting on reports that A. G. Manzer and Sons Ltd.

logging crews have been reduced because of E & N prices, Mr. Sloan said the railway has had no business negotiations with the company since 1956.

He said since Pacific Logging Co. started logging in Sooke in August more than 35 men have been asked to log.

More than 100 additional jobs would be created when the Sooke Forest Products sawmill expansion program was completed in April, 1963.

Moore-Whittington announced last week its Elder Timber Company has been forced out of business because it could not negotiate purchases of standing timber on the land belt owned by the railway and its subsidiary, Pacific Logging Co.

Stanley Moore, president and division manager of sawmills, said the E & N terms were impossible. The railway had asked a high price and cash before the timber was logged and its estimates of timber quality were so close "we could not afford to gamble."

Shawnigan Teacher

Centre of Incident Dies in Jamaica

John Michael Hewitt, centre of a 1954 Shawnigan Lake color bar incident which received international prominence, has died in Jamaica at 39.

Mr. Hewitt was a teacher at Shawnigan Lake School, a private school, in 1954 when he married Dorothy Holtz, a fashion model and daughter of Jamaica's accountant general.

Mr. Hewitt quit his job at the school after he claimed his wife was asked to leave because of her color.

He later took a teaching job at Alpha High School in Burnaby but the couple left Vancouver for Jamaica in August of 1955.

Born in Sussex, England, he served in Burma during the Second World War and was mentioned in dispatches.

He was deputy superintendent of the St. Thomas division, Jamaica Constabulary, at the time of his death.

He is survived by his widow and two children.

City Driver Gets 45 Days in Jail

His second impaired driving conviction cost a Victoria man 45 days in jail and a two-year driver's licence suspension in Saanich police court yesterday.

Mark McGilvery, 1038 View, pleaded guilty to being impaired. Police stopped his car at Cloverdale and Douglas early yesterday.

Court heard he admitted having "between 10 and 15 beers."

Leadership A TCA tradition... and a promise for the future.

In recent years, your airline's annual rate of growth has far exceeded that of Canada's population. TCA's expansion reflects leadership and sound planning. As Canadians have come to rely more and more on air transportation, TCA has been ready to fulfill their needs.

Some achievements and innovations. TCA's responsibility, of course, has been linking a huge, thinly-populated country tightly together—and, at the same time, building an asset worth $316 million.

But many smaller achievements have been part of this big one.

Excellence in engineering and aircraft maintenance have made TCA one of the world's most dependable airlines. Your airline has pioneered many advances in airline operations to improve reliability, including:

- X-ray examination of aircraft structures and engine components.

- Development of operations research techniques in aircraft maintenance.

- Application of the latest quality-control methods.

- Development of the "fail safe" concept in the basic design of aircraft and aircraft systems.

In 1955, TCA introduced turbine-powered flight to North America with the famous Vickers Viscount. Within a few years, it was operating a fleet of all-turbine aircraft (Viscounts, Vikings and DC-8 jets ... soon to be joined by DC-8Fs, which will be used partly to provide the world's first jet freight service, on TCA's Trans-Atlantic routes).

*Alternative components and systems

Practically every Canadian citizen, young and old, benefits from another important innovation by TCA and the Canadian Post Office.

This is first-class mail carried between principal cities exclusively by air.

World-wide prestige. Time and again, TCA and its people have won international recognition for corporate and individual achievement. For example, J. T. Dymont, Chief Engineer for TCA, has brought honour to Canada—and your airline's role in world aviation. He has served as Chairman of the first international conference on Supersonic Air Transportation—attended by 600 experts from 25 countries—and more recently was appointed Chairman of IATA's Supersonic Advisory Committee.

Always alert to new concepts, TCA is applying miracles of electronic science to improve passenger service, management and control functions. Advanced computers are used in inventory control, accounting, engineering and other areas of operation.

The second quarter-century. These, along with many other achievements, add up to a promise for the future that TCA's owners—the people of Canada—can rely on.

Supersonic commercial flight and air travel developments that were science fiction when TCA first spread its wings are now just over the horizon. Because it is in the hands of competent and dedicated people, the tradition of leadership established in its first quarter-century will be maintained for Canadians by TCA in the challenging years ahead.

Thieves Busy Downtown Over Christmas Holiday

A thirsty thief stole three bottles of liquor after he threw a piece of iron through a rear window at Westcraft Manufacturing Ltd., 2811 Douglas, sometime over the Christmas holiday.

Harknett Fuel Ltd., 2333 Government, was robbed of $3 in silver. The premises had been entered by an upstairs rear door which was forced open. A downstairs door leading to the office had also been jimmied. The theft was discovered Boxing Day.

RADIOS STOLEN

Four transistor radios and $15.45 in cash were stolen from Continental Home Supply Ltd., 851 Johnson. A hole had been punched in a wallboard beside a rear door, police said.

A house at 1638 Earle was broken into while the occupants were away. Neighbors reported on Christmas Day that the back door of the Flinn Walters residence had been taken off its hinges. They could not say if anything had been stolen.

YOUTH SURPRISED

Eaton's night watchman, T. Theobald, surprised a youth in a blue jacket trying to jimmy the south Government Street door of the department store around 1:30 yesterday morning.

The youth ran east on View Street and got away.

Vatican Worried

Pope's Health Still Concern

VATICAN CITY (AP) — One month ago Thursday Pope John became seriously ill. He has slowly resumed his duties and now pronounces himself in perfect condition, but Vatican circles remain concerned about his health.

The nature of the 81-year-old Roman Catholic ruler's illness has never been fully disclosed. "The only Vatican communiqué describing his ailment said he had a stomach disorder that caused a serious anemia. The disorder is generally believed to be an ulcer."

NOT INVOLVED

He has suffered from a prostate condition for years, but apparently this was not involved in his latest illness. There had been rumors, published outside of Italy, that he might undergo an operation and that he might have cancer. His doctor, Prof. Antonio Ghisari, ruled out any surgical intervention and denied that the Pope had cancer.

ONLY FEW KNOW

Vatican sources have said that only a few persons at the Vatican really know what is the matter with the pontiff. Many prelates who were in Rome for the Vatican ecumenical council said they did not know what the Pope's ailment was. But they understood it was serious.

Paul - Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, said the Pope's illness "will remain with him until the end of his days." The cardinal, speaking in Montreal after the ecumenical council recessed, said he did not know the nature of the illness.

Cold Wave Kills Fifty

LONDON (CP)—Britain and most of Europe was caught in a mid-winter freeze Thursday night. Arctic winds, blizzards and numbing cold claimed a mounting toll of victims.

The count of deaths in the snow and ice rose to about 50. Road, rail and air traffic was reduced to chaos and moved at a crawl.

TRAIN WRECK

Near the British rail junction of Crewe, snow piled up over a path of debris of abandoned teddy bears and broken toys. Two express trains crashed in a blizzard there Wednesday night killing 18 persons and injuring 60 others. Four of the dead were children.

QUEEN SHOCKED

Queen Elizabeth, in a message of sympathy, said she was "deeply shocked" by the accident.

Only ski enthusiasts were happy about the cold snap. In Swiss resorts tens of thousands of winter sportsmen enjoyed near-perfect conditions on the slopes.

PORTUGAL FREEZES

Eight old people died of cold in normally sunny Portugal. Two died in Spain.

Hundreds of Italian mountain towns were cut off by snow falls and to the northern Alps the temperature plunged to 31 below zero. It was Italy's coldest Christmas week of the century.

DIE IN AVALANCHE

Two Italian smugglers were swept to their deaths by an avalanche and six other people died in the country of exposure. Skating on thin ice cost 13 lives in Holland over the Christmas holiday when hundreds took to their skates despite warnings.

SWISS FATALITIES

Four persons have been frozen to death in Switzerland this week. A farmer was killed by an avalanche and two boys drowned when the ice broke while they were skating.

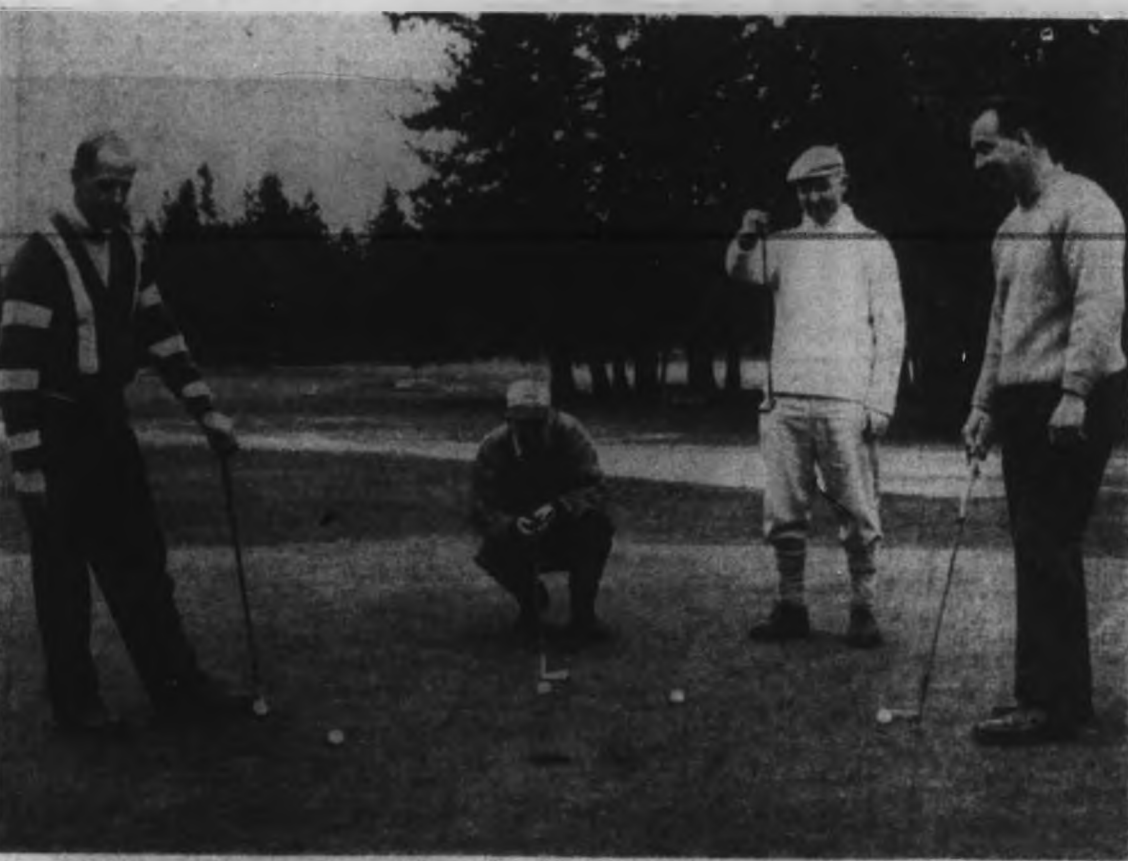

In France, 11 persons died from the cold and nine from asphyxiation caused by faulty stoves in the last 24 hours.

Golfers Had Ball And Close Finish

While most of North America froze on Boxing Day, golfers from Victoria and points as far away as Regina had a ball at Royal Colwood golf course in The Daily Colonist's ninth annual Christmas Tree tournament.

Vic Painter and Mrs. Ken Lawson of Victoria captured the main prizes as three of the four biggest events were decided by a playoff of a toss of the coin in the closest finish ever.

All of the 134 entrants had a good time and the weather, of course, was fine. Full details in stories and pictures on Pages 8, 10, 11 and 19.

Envy Of Canada

Envy of all other Canadian golfers for ninth consecutive Boxing Day were Victoria golfers who took part in the Colonist's Christmas Tree tournament at Colwood. Sharing in the fun were, from left, T. A. M. Fret of Victoria, Roy King of Calgary and Victorians Keith Taylor and Don McRae, seen on ninth green.

Britain 'Stupid Old Woman'

ADEN (Reuters)—Britain is "a hideous old woman" still pursuing "a stupid 17th-century imperialistic policy" towards Yemen, President Abdullah Salal said over San's radio Thursday.

The president's speech was made at an army ceremony in which rockets, parachutists, heavy field guns and tanks were paraded through the capital.

Salal said Britain was plotting against Yemen by sending light and heavy arms and infantrators into Yemen via Aden and Beihan, bordering Yemen. He described King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan as "fools and the dirtiest, basest of parasites" and said his army would "crush and destroy your palaces and dispatch you to your graves."

'BIG BROTHERS'

Salal said the Egyptians in the Yemen were not foreigners but "our big brothers."

DAMASCUS (AP)—Yemen's republican regime has asked the Soviet Union for a long-term commercial loan to help develop its backward economy.

U.S. Plane Missing Off Mexico

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—A twin-engine navy anti-submarine patrol seaplane, carrying 13 men, was the subject of a massive air-sea search in the Pacific Ocean off the northern coast of Mexico.

The Martin P5M, on a routine patrol out of North Island Naval Air Station here, last made contact with its home base Wednesday night.

Strike Slows Latins But Full Stop Fails

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An attempt by leaders of 12 unions to bring all Argentine air, sea and land transportation to a complete halt for 24 hours failed Thursday.

Strike leaders, among them Peronists and Communists, succeeded in paralyzing rail road traffic and port operations but buses and airlines were running. The work stoppage was called to press demands for prompt payment of salaries and social benefits. Except for bus services, all Argentina's main transportation lines are owned and operated by the government.

WAR PRESSED BY ADENAUER

German 'Annoyed' When Cuba Solved

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Khrushchev accused West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Thursday of trying to start a world war over the Cuba crisis and warned him that West Germany would be snuffed out like a candle in the first few hours of a conflict.

He said Adenauer had tried to "torpedo" every attempt by the United States and Russia to reach cold war settlements, including Berlin, and said Adenauer was disappointed when the crisis over Cuba was resolved peacefully by both sides making concessions.

'LIKE CANDLE'

Khrushchev leveled the charges in a letter to Adenauer in which the Soviet premier blamed the West for incidents along the Communist-built wall dividing Berlin. He renewed his charges that the West was guilty of espionage and subversion in regard to East Germany. Adenauer has asked Khrushchev to halt the incidents.

Khrushchev said prolonging the present situation in Berlin could have "dangerous consequences" and warned that West Germany "will burn like a candle in the very first hours" of any major war. Khrushchev's remarks on the Cuban crisis were seen as another indication of what is generally assumed in western diplomatic circles here to be the Kremlin view—that the major stumbling block to a settlement on Berlin is Adenauer and West Germany.

NO CUBES

But diplomatic sources said the Kremlin position on the whole German question since Cuba is an indication that no crisis is in the wind immediately. In their view, however, Russia will keep the Berlin question in the air.

More Ransom Seen For More Cubans

MIAMI (UPI)—The Red Cross said Thursday it was making arrangements to ship more ransom goods to Cuba and possibly provide transportation for an additional 4,000 invasion prisoners' relatives seeking to leave the island.

"We are making preliminary arrangements to get another ship to take freight to Cuba but nothing firm has been worked out yet," said Red Cross spokesman Roy Johnson.

He said that there are 37 carloads of supplies now at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to help pay the remainder of the ransom paid by Fidel Castro for the 1,113 prisoners released this week.

Kin Rejoin Ex-Captives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nearly a thousand relatives of the freed Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners arrived Thursday on an American freighter from Cuba and were reunited with the former captives in scenes of emotion and joy.

Chances were considered good that another shipment of relatives would be allowed to leave Cuba.

The ship, carrying 920 relatives, mostly women and children, docked at Port Everglades near here at 8 a.m. Castro threw in their release as a "Christmas bonus" to the 553,000,000 deal that brought 1,113 survivors of the invasion to Florida in an airlift that ended Christmas Eve.

LOOKS LIKE HEAVEN

"It's a miracle we are here," said Mrs. Jose Delgado, whose son, Roman, 28, was captured in the invasion. Her husband said, "anything outside of Cuba looks like heaven."

The exiles sailed aboard the freighter African Pilot which had carried to Havana the downpayment of $11,000,000 in drugs and baby food that substituted for heavy fines levied against the prisoners.

TO AUDITORIUM

After immigration procedures, uninvited by tiny children waving over smallpox shots, the exiles were rushed in buses to a huge Miami auditorium where they were reunited with the captives.

"About 800 of the freed prisoners, many still dressed in the U.S. Air Force uniform they were issued when they arrived, were on hand."

The exiles were probably the best-dressed refugees in history. Many represent the wealthy old Spanish families of Cuba, and they were dressed in fashionable frocks and high heels.

Refugee officials said after the ship docked: "This is only the first load."

Finder Still Jailed

Spirits Mum on Hidden Gold

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Roe Suazo received no word from the "spirits" yesterday to disclose where he hid Jesse James' phantom gold. So he stayed in jail.

Suazo, a slender, 30-year-old northern New Mexico Indian, was jailed Wednesday after failing to show up in U.S. district court.

A federal judge had ordered him to be there to explain why he had not disclosed the location of a reputed $645,000 in gold hidden gathered by the famed outlaw after the U.S. Civil War to be used when the South rose again.

Suazo, who lives in the Santa Clara Pueblo in northern New Mexico, was ordered arrested by Federal Judge Waldo Rogers.

Jesse L. James of Mantou Springs, Colo., who claims to be a descendant of Jesse James, says the outlaw hid the 14 90-pound gold ingots on the Santa Clara Reservation after the Civil War.

James filed a suit in federal court this year to try to get the gold. Judge Rogers ruled it was James' and ordered Suazo to tell where it was. The Indian refused.

James testified he and Suazo found the gold March 10, 1900, on a mountain on the reservation, following instructions given him by his grandfather.

He said he became ill and decided not to try to carry the gold out through heavy snowdrifts, but to return for it later.

James charged that before he could return, Suazo moved the gold and refused to disclose the location except on instructions from the "spirits."

Judge Rogers ordered Suazo to appear in court Dec. 17 to explain his failure to comply with the court order, but Suazo did not show up. He was held without bond pending a hearing by the judge, who was ill and temporarily away from the court.

The U.S. marshal's office here refused to grant permission to interview the prisoner. The office said a ruling by the U.S. attorney-general prohibited interviews or pictures of federal prisoners.

J. Frank Trujillo of Santa Fe, N.M., the arresting marshal, said Suazo would be held until "the court is ready for him."

Trujillo said Suazo was "not dumb," spoke good English and could read and write. Suazo is a Second World War army veteran, Trujillo said.

Law Society of Britain Backs Thalidomide Fight

LONDON (Reuters) — The father of an armless baby will get financial backing through Britain's Law Society in his high court action against the makers of the tranquillizer drug thalidomide.

Librarian Edward Rotherley, of the Isle of Wight, claims damages from Distillers Biochemicals Company, which produced the drug alleged to cause deformities in unborn babies.

He alleges that his 12-month-old Richard was born without arms because his wife Betty was supplied with thalidomide under Britain's national health service during her pregnancy.

After nearly four months' investigation, the Law Society's legal aid committee decided to support the action — a test case for more than 300 thalidomide babies in Britain.

SAN FRANCISCO — Richard D. Holtan, 27, a shipping clerk from Huntington Park, Calif., had his timing wrong. Pictured shielding his face with hand-cuffed hands, Holtan handed a teller in a bank here a note demanding $1,500, saying he carried a bomb. The teller handed over the money.

He'll Appoint Guide

Saanich Future in Murphy's Hands

By JACK FRY
What lies ahead for a fast-growing Saanich municipality? This is the question which must be answered early in 1963 by Reeve Stanley Murphy and his new council.

Reeve Murphy, much like a coach-quarterback, must decide who will serve on the various committees and boards, and guide council in its effort to keep services in step with development.

The council itself will set a policy on what goals to strive for on a wide front of essential services need for the municipality.

Reeve Murphy yesterday outlined five general goals which he hopes council will press for early in the new year.

They included a $1,700,000 sewer bylaw, an increased road program, continuation of park expansion and tree planting, completion of a new community plan and decisions relating to the need for a new municipal hall.

"These goals are attainable, and if they are achieved we will be well prepared and protected for years to come," said the reeve.

Passage of a sewer bylaw in the western part of the municipality would give sewerage lots for at least another 10 years, he said.

It would also solve problems through to the Colquitz basin, including some contaminated areas where there are pockets of small, scattered subdivisions.

The sewer bylaw will be put to the people after approval is received from the provincial health department. It will cost property owners about $70 per year for 20 years.

Reeve Murphy hopes to see road improvement programs carried out on Foul Bay and Burnside Roads, similar to those already done on Quadra, Reynolds, Cloverdale and Shelbourne.

"Large scale acquisition of parks is totally unlikely," but there should be a continuation of the park expansion and boulevard tree-planting programs, he said.

The municipal planning department is now finishing a community plan for the area between Shelbourne and Quadra, which will give the corporation control of lot sizes, zoning and minimum floor areas, similar to the community plan which exists east of Shelbourne.

The community plan is not binding on council, but it traditionally is closely followed.

Some decision must also be made on proposals to build a new municipal hall to replace the old one at Royal Oak. Council has already authorized expenditure of up to $6,000 for study of a site at Vernon Avenue and preparation of preliminary specifications.

Committee members will be named during the first, or statutory, 1963 meeting of council Jan. 7. The question of municipal progress versus tax increases will then be in the hands of six councillors, Joseph Casey, Harold Todd, Leslie Passmore, Gregory Cook, Hugh Curtis and Robert Oaker.

They, and Saanich property owners, will have to decide what lies ahead for Saanich.

Television Under Sea

TUMING—Shimmed Christmas gift for residents of Port Alberni across from Ucluelet was to have their television sets in operation with signal piped in by cable from Ucluelet.

It is believed that this may be the first under-the-ocean portable television reception in B.C.

Ucluelet shindivers helped lay the cable from the Rogers' Ucluelet Video to Port Alberni.

Plans are to extend the cable to Ucluelet Indian Village next spring.

Although only 21 homeowners entered the actual contest for the most attractively illuminated house, there were many houses which should have been entered because of the beautiful effects achieved.

The parade of cars headed by Mayor Pete Maffeo and four contest judges was a most a mile long and toured the city.

Safecrackers Grab $7,000 At Sointula

SOINTULA—Cracksmen cut through a vault and inside safe to get at $7,000 in cash and cheques here early Christmas Day. The loot included credit union savings and Christmas receipts of Sointula Co-operative Store.

A spokesman for the store said thieves first attempted to blow the vault, using nitroglycerin.

CUT HOLE

When this failed they cut a hole in vault door with a torch and removed an inside safe containing money and cheques.

The thieves were again frustrated when they knocked the dial off the smaller safe and it failed to open. They finally made their way to the money by cutting through the side of the safe with a torch.

BOXES RANSACKED

Also ransacked were 150 safety deposit boxes kept in the vault by association members. "But these were not supposed to contain any money," the spokesman said.

Thieves entered the store through a side window and made directly for the office. Nothing else in the store was disturbed.

Milk Stays Pegged

Board Rejects Price Change

Dairymen Of Saanich Up in Arms

The B.C. milk board has rejected a proposal from the B.C. Federation of Agriculture to amend the board's order pegging the produced price of fluid milk.

Milk producers on the Saanich Peninsula were up in arms about the announcement made yesterday by milk board chairman E. C. Carr.

Mr. Carr also said that the issue is not yet closed and that there will be further study "with a view towards possible modification of the regulations."

He suggested the federation modify its proposal to include a floor price.

FOLLOWED ORDER

The federation's proposal followed the board's order, effective Dec. 1, pegging the producer price at three dollars per hundredweight above the floor price, based on payments for milk used for manufacturing purposes.

The order was the cause of much controversy in the B.C. dairy industry.

SOLD DOWN RIVER

Brian Hoole, 5673 Oakfield Road, a member of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association and of the Saanich Jersey Cattle Club, charged last night that "Mr. Carr has sold us down the river."

Producers will lose 26 cents per can of milk because of the order, he said.

Output of average Island dairy farms varies from five to 15 cans daily and will mean a monthly loss of $30 to $117, Mr. Hoole said.

Santa Pays Last Visit To Nanaimo Hospital

NANAIMO—Mayor Pete Maffeo, aldermen and representatives of the Nanaimo hospital board paid their last official Christmas visit to the old Nanaimo Hospital.

They made the round of the wards with Santa Claus, played by Russ Inkster, chairman of the board, and other hospital officials.

Nanaimo is looking forward to the opening of the new regional hospital Jan. 6, 1963.

Jewelers Raided

Juvenile Charged At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—A juvenile is in custody following a pre-Christmas break-in at on the premises of a garage Compton Jeweller's temporary quarters on Third Avenue South.

RCPMP said the youth was charged with breaking, entering and theft and probably will be tried in adult court. The offence involved the theft of stock worth $700. It has been recovered.

Entry was gained by a window at the rear of the premises where the business reopened following a fire in the jewelry store in early December.

The same juvenile and another youth also face charges in connection with a break-in at the Mt. Lady Rose. An undisclosed amount of cigarettes was stolen and later recovered. A third youth was arrested at on the premises of a garage and faces charges of breaking and entering.

CARE Aided By Carollers

Eight young people of the Gordon Head area collected $26 for CARE by singing carols Christmas Eve.

The six girls and two boys sang for about 2 1/2 hours in the area, making door-to-door collections.

This is the third time they have done it. They collected $7 in 1960 and $13 last year.

Gift of Help, Time Warms 'Mr. Victoria'

By Ted Shackleford

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT: Mr. Victoria—George I. Warren—is very happy about an unexpected Christmas gift he got this year. He and Mrs. Warren were driving up Island, about five miles from Parksville on Christmas Day when their right front tire went flat. This happened about 4:30 p.m. and with darkness descending rapidly, George attempted vainly to jack the car up. Then a car driven by Dave McCroight of Alberni stopped.

Dave jacked up the Warrens' car and removed the punctured wheel. When he found the spare was flat, too, he drove the five miles to Parksville and hunted around among the closed stations until he found one with the air hose still operative, pumped up the tire and returned and put the wheel on the car.

LIGHTER HIDE: Friend of ours recently replaced his cigarette lighter which had a dogwood, B.C.'s official flower, etched into the side. The new one has both sides decorated with an etched design of the Canadian $20 bill. The point employees scrip to obtain 15-pound turkeys for Christmas decided to kill two birds with one scrip, in a manner of speaking. He felt a 15-pound bird was too big for his own small family and knew of a family in town with four children which could really use a large turkey, so he gave them the scrip. He figured on buying a turkey about eight pounds in weight for his own family, but when he began looking he found that the smallest he could buy anywhere weighed in at just 14 pounds. We hear he is now sick of turkey, but still happy he gave the scrip away.

CHRISTMAS MAN: Amateur short-wave radio "ham" George Bridges, 2542 Belmont, was middle man in a happy Christmas Day incident. George was operating his set when he happened to pick up another "ham" broadcasting from a point only 200 miles south of Santa's headquarters at the North Pole. In a very few minutes George found out that he was chatting with a former Victoria resident whose mother still lives here so he was able to pick up the phone and pass on Christmas greetings.

BIG BIRD: Man who works for a city firm which gives its

Cold Wave Kills Fifty

LONDON (CP)—Britain and most of Europe was caught in a mid-winter freeze Thursday night. Arctic winds, blizzards and numbing cold claimed a mounting toll of victims.

The count of deaths in the snow and ice rose to about 50. Road, rail and air traffic was reduced to chaos and moved at a crawl.

TRAIN WRECK

Near the British rail junction of Crewe, snow piled up over a path of debris of abandoned freight cars and broken toys. Two express trains crashed in a blizzard there Wednesday night killing 18 persons and injuring 60 others. Four of the dead were children.

QUEEN SHOCKED

Queen Elizabeth, in a message of sympathy, said she was "deeply shocked" by the accident.

Only ski enthusiasts were happy about the cold snap. In Swiss resorts tens of thousands of winter sportsmen enjoyed near-perfect conditions on the slopes.

PORTUGAL FREEZES

Eight old people died of cold in normally sunny Portugal. Two died in Spain.

Hundreds of Italian mountain huts were cut off by snow falls and in the northern Alps the temperature plunged to 31 below zero. It was Italy's coldest Christmas week of the century.

DIE IN AVALANCHE

Two Italian smugglers were swept to their deaths by an avalanche and six other people died in the country of exposure. Skating on thin ice cost 13 lives in Holland over the Christmas holiday when hundreds took to their skates despite warnings.

SWISS FATALITIES

Four persons have been frozen to death in Switzerland this week. A farmer was killed by an avalanche and two boys drowned when the ice broke while they were skating.

In France, 11 persons died from the cold and nine from asphyxiation caused by faulty stoves in the last 24 hours.

Golfers Had Ball And Close Finish

While most of North America froze on Boxing Day, golfers from Victoria and points as far away as Regina had a ball at Royal Colwood golf course in The Daily Colonist's ninth annual Christmas Tree tournament.

Vic Painter and Mrs. Ken Lawson of Victoria captured the main prizes as three of the four biggest events were decided by a playoff of a toss of the coin in the closest finish ever.

All of the 134 entrants had a good time and the weather, of course, was fine. Full details in stories and pictures on Pages 8, 10, 11 and 19.

Envy Of Canada

Envy of all other Canadian golfers for ninth consecutive Boxing Day were Victoria golfers who took part in the Colonist's Christmas Tree tournament at Colwood. Sharing in the fun were, from left, Dr. T. A. M. Peet of Victoria, Roy King of Calgary and Victorians Keith Taylor and Don Strath, seen on ninth green.

Britain 'Stupid Old Woman'

ADEN (Reuters)—Britain is "a hideous old woman" still pursuing "a stupid 17th-century imperialistic policy" towards Yemen, President Abdullah Salal said over Sar's radio Thursday.

The president's speech was made at an army ceremony in which rockets, parachutists, heavy field guns and tanks were paraded through the capital.

Salal said Britain was plotting against Yemen by sending light and heavy arms and infiltrating agents.

WAR OVER CUBA ADENAUER'S AIM

Cuba Solution 'Annoyed' Him

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Khrushchev accused West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Thursday of trying to start a world war over the Cuba crisis and warned him that West Germany would be snuffed out like a candle in the first few hours of a conflict.

He said Adenauer had tried to "torpedo" every attempt by the United States and Russia to reach cold war settlements, including Berlin, and said Adenauer was disappointed when the crisis over Cuba was resolved peacefully by both sides making concessions.

'LIKE CANDLE'

Khrushchev leveled the charges in a letter to Adenauer in which the Soviet premier blamed the West for incidents along the Communist-bull wall dividing Berlin. He renewed his charges that the West was guilty of espionage and subversion in regard to East Germany. Adenauer has asked Khrushchev to halt the incidents.

Khrushchev said prolonging the present situation in Berlin could have "dangerous consequences" and warned that West Germany "will burn like a candle in the very first hours" of any major war.

Khrushchev's remarks on the Cuban crisis were seen as another indication of what is generally assumed in western diplomatic circles here to be the Kremlin view—that the major stumbling block to a settlement on Berlin is Adenauer and West Germany.

NO CRISIS

But diplomatic sources said the Kremlin position on the whole German question since Cuba is an indication that no crisis is in the wind immediately. In their view, however, Russia will keep the Berlin

More Ransom Seen For More Cubans

MIAMI (UPI)—The Red Cross said Thursday it was making arrangements to ship more ransom goods to Cuba and possibly provide transportation for an additional 4,000 invasion prisoners' relatives seeking to leave the island.

"We are making preliminary arrangements to get another ship to take freight to Cuba but nothing firm has been worked out yet," said Red Cross spokesman Roy Johnson.

He said that there are 37 carloads of supplies now at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to help pay the remainder of the ransom asked by Fidel Castro for the 1,113 prisoners released this week.

Kin Rejoin Ex-Captives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nearly a thousand relatives of the freed Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners arrived Thursday on an American freighter from Cuba and were reunited with the former captives in scenes of emotion and joy.

Chances were considered good that another shipment of relatives would be allowed to leave Cuba.

The ship, carrying 920 relatives, mostly women and children, docked at Port Everglades near here at 9 a.m. Castro threw in their release as a "Christmas bonus" to the $55,000,000 deal that brought 1,113 survivors of the invasion to Florida in an airlift that ended Christmas Eve.

LOOKS LIKE HEAVEN

"It's a miracle we are here," said Mrs. Jose Delgado, whose son, Roman, 28, was captured in the invasion. Her husband said, "anything outside of Cuba looks like heaven."

The exiles sailed aboard the freighter African Pilot which had arrived in Havana the day before. The ship had 11,000,000 in dollars and baby food that substituted for heavy fines levied against the prisoners.

TO AUDITORIUM

After immigration procedures, ushered by tiny children waving over smallpox shots, the exiles were rushed in buses to a huge Miami auditorium where they were reunited with the captives.

About 600 of the freed prisoners, many still dressed in the U.S. Air Force suntan uniforms they were issued when they arrived, were on hand.

The exiles were probably the best-dressed refugees in history. Many represent the wealthy old Spanish families of Cuba, and they were dressed in fashionable frocks and high heels.

Refugee officials said after the ship docked: "This is only the first load."

JFK Seeing Prisoners

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy will go to Miami Saturday to see the 1,113 freed Cuban invasion prisoners at a special ceremony in the Orange Bowl.

Don't Miss

Quintuplets Born In Argentine

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The world's third known set of quintuplets was born in the village of Simbolar Thursday to Mrs. Manuela Olmeda, who gave birth to four girls and a boy without medical assistance.

First quintuplets in medical history to survive beyond infancy were the Dionnes of Calender, Ont.

Strike Slows Latins But Full Stop Fails

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An attempt by leaders of 12 unions to bring all Argentine air, sea and land transportation to a complete halt for 24 hours failed Thursday.

Strike leaders, among them Peronists and Communists, succeeded in paralyzing rail road traffic and port operations but buses and airlines were running.

The work stoppage was called to press demands for prompt payment of salaries and social benefits. Except for bus services, all Argentina's main transportation lines are owned and operated by the government.

But an atheist school teacher interviewed—not the one in question—doesn't think this is so.

Are atheist school teachers able to refrain from injecting their non-belief into what they teach, particularly when their subject is history?

Or will they unconsciously sow a grain of doubt in religious faith in the receptive minds of their pupils?

A Gordon United Church minister who has since left the parish was reported to have serious objections to an atheist school teacher whose wife he urged to attend church services.

Although I'm an atheist I teach the children with the scrupulous impartiality that is the only valid historical approach," he told me. He said he wanted his name withheld.

"The only way to teach history is with an unbiased approach," he said while his friend, also a teacher but not an atheist, nodded consent.

"A teacher's personal life doesn't necessarily enter the classroom," the Christian teacher said.
